New Curriculum Program Set For Fall

In order to provide students with the opportunity for discussion and systematic study of current events and problems, the faculty of Elon College has approved for next year the offering of a program of Current Issues and Problems on a seminar-study group format. Dr. John Sullivan has been employed as coordinator of the studies. Dr. Sullivan will work with a faculty-student committee which will select the topics for study. He will also recruit faculty participants, help in providing resource materials and coordinate the overall activities of the program. He was formerly administrative assistant to Bernard P. Gallagher, President of World Wide Publications, Inc., and publisher of The Gallagher Report, The Gallagher Sales Executive's Report. Prior to his association with World Wide Publications, Dr. Sullivan served as executive secretary to the Bishop of Providence and assistant chancellor for the Rhode Island Diocese of the Catholic Church.

Faculty and students will work together on issues of interest and concern to them both, with the aims of gathering data, identification of the complexities, and learning the alternatives available on these issues. Upon completion of the semester, the students will receive one semester hour of credit.

Among the topics presently under consideration for the fall semester are: War and Peace, Ecology, Personal Growth, Education and Educational Reform, Racial and Poverty Questions, Government Structures, Music and Its Reflection and Anticipation of Cultural Change, The Drug Experience, Changing Family Structures, Technology and Its Impact on the Quality of Life, Religious Needs, and Mechanisms for Social Change.

NCFCRC Grant To Elon

Elon College has received a grant of $37,315 from the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges.

Related to the Southern Conference of the United Church of Christ, Elon is one of 25 members of the Foundation that divided $713,000 made available to church-related colleges through the Foundation by business and industry.

In addition to approving the grants at a meeting this week, the Foundation elected officers.

Elected to the executive committee were Norman A. Wiggins, president of Campbell College; John J. Ryan of Charlotte; W. Roger Soles of Greensboro; and Samuel A. Angotti of Winston-Salem.

The Foundation's board is composed of college presidents and representatives of the state's business and industry.

Dr. Marc Weersing, President of Presbyterian College, served as commencement speaker.

Commencement Exercises Held For Class Of '70

Elon College awarded bachelor of arts and science degrees to 248 seniors at its 86th annual commencement in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on May 24.

Dr. Marc C. Weersing, president of Presbyterian College in Clinton, S.C., told the graduating seniors that in order to rid our society of the ills and restlessness that it faces, we must recognize our false idols, adopt a set of ideals and go forward with renewed courage.

Dr. Weersing listed the four most prevalent false idols in our society today as scientism, emphasis on material or physical expansion, the impersonality of our daily life, and debasement of the word "freedom."

In urging the students to dedicate their lives to a purpose, Dr. Weersing warned that our world cannot endure if it is half starved and half fed, half educated and half ignorant, half healthy and half sick, half slave and half free. Furthermore, he said that our Earth is no longer a world, but a neighborhood. "What happens in Asia is happening on our street, on our block, within seeing and hearing distance of our homes and families."

In conclusion, Dr. Weersing said that if we are to find the answer to the problems of our times, these idols and ideals must be recognized and matched by a new sense of industry. "Industriousness, despite affluence or despair, must characterize conduct in life's affairs," he said.

Rev. Hoyle L. Whiteside, who delivered the baccalaureate sermon, advised the graduating seniors of Elon College how they must accept change and make peace with themselves and society. Winds of change and the speed with which those changes come make the search for "calm winds and placid seas" in one's life difficult.

Candidates for graduation were presented by C. Fletcher Moore, dean of the college, to President J. Earl Danieley, who conferred the degrees.

Thomas Short, president of the senior class, presented to the College a set of volumes on the papers of Dwight D. Eisenhower. Dr. Danieley accepted the Senior Class gift on behalf of the College.

Dr. Danieley gave the charge to the graduating class and the closing prayer.

Those graduating with honors included the following: Dianne Lynn Gucker, Edinburg, Va. (summa cum laude); Laurent Leon Changlun, Krugersdorp, South Africa, (cum laude); Linda Louise Long, Pocomoke City, Md. (cum laude); Sally Ann O'Neill, Sycamore, Ill. (cum laude); Cleo Marie Perdue, Roanoke, Va. (cum laude); Dennis Wayne Wilbourne, Leesburg, Va. (cum laude); Jerry Thomas Woodlief, Rougemont, (cum laude).

Each senior was presented a copy of The Holy Bible. This was made possible by the T. B. Dawson Memorial Bible Fund of the College.

Honorary Degrees Given To Three Burlington People

Three persons from Burlington were awarded honorary doctorate degrees from Elon College at the 80th annual commencement exercises.

A native of Burlington, Mrs. James H. McEwen was awarded the Doctorate of Humane Letters. Reid Atwater Maynard, a former banker and hosiery mill executive, received the Doctorate of Laws. The third recipient of an honorary degree was the Reverend Hoyle Lee Whiteside, who was awarded the Doctorate of Divinity. Rev. Whiteside, who is pastor of the Macedonia Lutheran Church in Burlington, delivered the baccalaureate address Sunday morning.

For many years Mrs. McEwen has served as a member of the Elon College Board of Trustees and the Elon Home for Children. Her generous donations to the College enabled the construction of McEwen Dining Hall which is dedicated to her late husband.

In addition, Mrs. McEwen has been active in the First Christian Church. She has established a Sunday School class for young girls, aided in the publishing of a complete history of the church, and served on various local, conference and convention boards.

Mrs. McEwen has a son, James Henry McEwen, a daughter, Mrs. John A. McCrary, and several grandchildren.

A native of Caswell County, Reid A. Maynard first came to Alamance County to attend Guillem Academy for his early education. In 1915 he was enrolled at the University of North Carolina until he joined the Army during World War I. He returned to UNC and was graduated with a bachelor's degree in 1919.

Maynard is a member of Front Street Methodist Church in Burlington and has been on the board of stewards for more than 30 years. He also has been a church trustee since 1944 and chairman of the trustees for several years.

In the field of education, he has been a member of the UNC board of trustees for 27 years and for the past 12 years has been a member of the executive committee. In addition, Maynard has been on the Elon College board of trustees for 22 years.

Active in civic affairs, Maynard has served on the Burlington Board of Aldermen, and has been active in the Burlington Rotary Club. He was one of the "Original 21" who started the Community YMCA project in Burlington in World War II. He served for 10 years as chairman of the Alamance County Draft Board and later as chairman of the State Draft Board of Appeals.

Maynard currently is serving as co-chairman of the board of trustees of Alamance County Hospital.

For his community efforts, he was named Citizen of the Year for Alamance County in 1952. He and Mrs. Maynard have three children, Donald of Westfield, N.J.; James of Alamance County; and a daughter, Mrs. Harold Henderson who lives in Singapore. There also are six grandsons.

The Reverend Hoyle Lee Whiteside was graduated from Kings Mountain High School and Lenoir Rhyme College. At the age of 18 he received his B.D. degree from Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary. While attending the Seminary, he did graduate study at the University of South Carolina, Rutgers and Yale Universities. He was the recipient of the first Master of Sacred Theology degree ever conferred by the Seminary.

Since 1961, Rev. Whiteside has served as pastor of Macedonia Lutheran Church in Burlington. He has also been pastor at churches in Hickory and Gastonia.

Active in civic and community affairs in Alamance County, Rev. Whiteside was the 1969 recipient of the Burlington Citizenship Award.

Presently Rev. Whiteside is serving on the Executive Committee and Board of Directors of the Burlington Community YMCA. He is serving his second term as president of the Alamance County Community Council and as a member of the executive committee of the United Fund of Alamance County.

Rev. Whiteside has demonstrated his interest in education by serving as a member of the Board of Trustees of Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary in Columbia, S.C. and is presently serving his second term as a member of the Board of Trustees of Lenoir Rhyme College.

Rev. Hoyle Lee Whiteside, Reid Atwater Maynard, Dr. J. E. Danieley and Mrs. James H. McEwen.

Moving Day Draws Near

The anticipation of "moving day" is creating a great deal of excitement as the completion of the new Classroom—Office Building draws near. The expected date of occupancy is the first of July. Carpet has already been installed and furniture for the entire building has been set in place.

Many of the administrative offices have already begun to pack boxes, files, and other office equipment hoping to ease the pains of last minute moving.

Some of the administrative offices now located in Alamance and Carlton Buildings will be relocated on the first floor of the new building. The President's office, now located on the second floor of Carlton Building will be moved to the new building along with the offices of the Dean of the College, the Dean of Instruction, and the Assistant to the President. A suite of offices will be occupied by the directors of Development, Public Relations, Publications, and the News Bureau. The Registrar's Office will be located within the Central Records Center. This will allow quick access to student records and transcripts. In addition to these offices, the offices of Admissions and Financial Aid and Placement will also be found on the first floor of the new building.

Returning alumni are invited to visit the new Alumni Offices immediately to the right of the main entrance. The office of Dr. A. L. Hook, known to many as Mr. Elon, will be in the Alumni Suite and he will be in a convenient place to greet alumni.

An interesting feature of the new building is the small kitchen and lounge area on the first floor. One wall of the lounge is constructed of brick from East Dormitory third stories for many years where the new building now stands.

The remainder of the building, the second and third floors, is composed of faculty offices, classrooms, and laboratories. A total of 15 faculty offices, 9 classrooms, and 3 laboratories are scheduled for a wide variety of classes, although there is a concentration of Social Science classes located in this building.

The unique floor plan has made it possible for faculty members to have offices convenient to their classrooms and laboratories.

New Classroom-Office Building Now Occupied

If you were on the Elon campus today looking for someone in the administration, and you had not visited the College for several weeks, you might find it a little difficult to locate the person for whom you were looking. Almost all of the administrative offices have been changed around due to the opening of the new classroom-office building.

On the first floor of the new structure the following offices can be found: President, Dean

Emeritus, Alumni, Financial Aid, Admissions, Deans of College and Instruction, Registrar, Publications, News Bureau, Public Relations and Development. Data processing (IBM) has been moved to the basement of the new building.

Many of the offices in Alumnice Building have had some minor renovations and there has been a major shuffling of administrative office assignments for those still remaining in Alumnice.

Danforth Graduate Fellowships For Women 1971-1972

The Danforth Foundation announces the seventh competition for the Graduate Fellowships for Women. The objective of the program is to find and develop college and secondary school teachers among that group of American women whose preparation for teaching has been postponed or interrupted. At some time in her career each candidate must have experienced a continuous break of at least three years' duration; at the time of her application she may not be employed as a full-time teacher or enrolled as a full-time graduate student.

The career of a typical recipient may have been interrupted by such factors as the raising of her family, personal illness, or the need of a paying job, but she now finds herself in circumstances which will permit her to undertake the graduate work essential for a professional career as a full-time teacher of the college or secondary school level.

The Fellowships are open to women who hold bachelor's degrees from accredited colleges or universities in the United States. Thirty-five new appointments are available annually. Selection will be made without reference to race, creed, citizenship, or marital status. Candidates may or may not have begun graduate work; they may or may not have had experience in teaching; they may propose a full or part-time program at an accredited graduate school in the United States, leading to a master's or to a doctor's degree. There is no age limitation, though preference will be given candidates whose programs of study call for completion by no later than age 35. Fellowships are not available for postdoctoral study or research or for graduate study not related to a degree. Applicants asking support for the dissertation only have a low priority.

A brochure, Danforth Foundation Graduate Fellowships for Women, provides fuller information about this program. Correspondence should be addressed to Director, Graduate Fellowships for Women, Danforth Foundation, 222 South Central Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri 63105.

Charles W. Moore

Youngest Division Head In State Government

"There is no generation gap in this office."

Secretary of State Thad Eure beamed. He had just announced the appointment of Charles W. Moore, 70, as Deputy Uniform Commercial Code Filing Officer, a division head position in Eure's department.

Eure is 70. Moore is 21. Moore, who reported for work June 1, is the youngest division head in state government.

Youth in state government is a cardinal tenet in the Eure philosophy. He rules a staff of approximately 25 which has an average age of 32 -- lower than any other state agency.

"And you must remember that I'm pulling that average up by several years," Eure said.

"Young people have a lot to offer. They deserve a chance to show what they can do. If we gave them more opportunity to come into active, meaningful levels of business and government there wouldn't be any of the generation gap problems we're hearing about," Eure said.

Eure hires employees young, trains them well, and sees them go on to other opportunities. "I've never fired anybody," he said, "and everybody who left this office went on to something better."

Eure takes a personal interest in every employee. How he hired Moore is illustrative of his approach.

The position became vacant when R.B. McKenzie, Jr. resigned to accept a promotion in another state department. The job, overseeing the perfecting of liens and filing of other commercial documents, required a business administration graduate.

Eure is chairman of the Elon College Board of Trustees. He screened seniors in the field and inquired of administration and faculty. He noted among the group Moore, whose academic record included induction into the Delta chapter of Alpha Chi, national scholastic society and on the Dean's List most of his college career.

Next Eure looked at family background. Moore, an Alamance County native and commuting student at Elon, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Freeman Moore. His father has worked for Burlington Industries 30 years. Young Moore worked summers while a student, and combined school bus driving with his studies in his senior year.

Then Eure turned attention to politics--Democratic, naturally. He talked with George A. Long, Alamance party chairman, and State Sen. Ralph Scott of Alamance, a fellow member of the Elon Board of Trustees. He was assured the Moores were registered Democrats with unblemished loyalty.

Thus satisfied on qualifications, background and politics, Eure watched Moore file past among those receiving diplomas at the Elon commencement. Back in Raleigh, he placed a telephone call to Moore.

"I didn't know what in the world to think when I answered the phone," said Moore. Surprise turned to interest when he heard about the job in Raleigh.

"We got together mighty quick," Eure reported.

His belief in giving the young a chance is more than abstract theory for Thad Eure. It's based on his own personal experience.

SECRETARY OF STATE, THAD EURE, AND CHARLES W. MOORE

He came out of the University of North Carolina Law School in 1922 and was elected mayor of Winston the next year at the age of 24. He won a seat in the General Assembly, representing Hertford County, at the age of 28. He was elected to his present position in 1936 when he was 35 years old.

You might sum up his credo this way: Start 'em young, start 'em right, and they won't go wrong.

Two Young Alumni Elected As Trustees

Three new trustees, including two young alumni, were elected in the spring meeting of the Board of Trustees of Elon College.

In compliance with a proposal that was passed at the fall meeting, the Board of Trustees elected William M. Parke Herbert of the Class of 1968 to a one-year term on the board and Gerry Stephen Oxford of the Class of 1969 to a two-year term. These two appointments are filling vacant seats on the board and do not affect the total number of trustees (36).

Each year, a graduate from the preceding year is to be elected to a two-year term. Nominees for these posts must rank in the top ten per cent of their class. They are not allowed to succeed themselves on the board.

Herbert, who is a native of Graham, is currently a second-year medical student at Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Wake Forest University. He has received a Duke Externship at the Cotswold Medical Clinic in Charlotte for this summer.

While at Elon, Herbert was the recipient of the Alamance-Caswell Medical Auxiliary Scholarship. He was a dean's list student, a graduation marshal and a member of Sigma Mu Sigma fraternity.

Oxford, 21 was graduated from Elon in 1969 with a major in biology. He was president of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and served as a biology lab instructor. A native of Elon College and a member of the United Church of Christ, Oxford is currently enrolled in his first year of graduate school at Emory University.

In addition, the board elected Mrs. W.W. Sellers of Burlington to fill the unexpired term of her late husband.

Missionary In Africa

A Tri-Lingual Ministry

By LOUIS WILKINS

"Kalungil Wa lali?" is the Umbundu greeting with which Joyce Myers, class of 1959, begins her day at Emmanuel Seminary in central Portuguese Angola, Africa.

During her youth Joyce, a native of Philadelphia, was active in the Pilgrim Congregational Church where her grandfather was minister. At Elon College she continued her involvement in life around her serving both on the Honor Court and in the Student Legislature. Her commitment to serving others was also one of her practiced priorities, as she spent one summer at a workcamp in Puerto Rico and the four following summers with the Migrant Ministry.

In 1959 Joyce graduated Summa Cum Laude from Elon, with majors in Religion, Christian Education, and Philosophy. She entered Hartford Seminary in Connecticut for missionary preparation, hoping for Portuguese permission to enter Angola in 1961 after a semester's study of Portuguese at the University of Wisconsin. During that spring, however, the Angolan struggle for freedom broke into open warfare, and Portugal refused visas to anyone who might be sympathetic to the Africans' struggle for self-government. Joyce then continued at Hartford Seminary until she completed the B. D. degree in May of 1963, was ordained into the Christian Ministry of the United Church of Christ and commissioned a missionary of the United Church Board for World Ministries. She studied Portuguese culture and language at the University of Lisbon while waiting for a visa to enter Angola. In March of 1964 she received the first visa issued to a protestant missionary to Angola in four years!

After eight months of studying the Umbundu language, she began her ministry as Director of the Bailundo Mission in central Angola. In 1969 Joyce was invited to join the staff of Emmanuel Seminary, which serves both the Church of Christ of Central Angola and the Methodist Church (of northern Angola). Her responsibilities there include teaching classes for the twelve seminarians, ten men and two women, in Old Testament Exegesis, Christian Education and Worship (lessons being given in Portuguese); classes for the seminarians' wives in Christian Education or Bible (those being given in the Umbundu language); teaching a Bible class for the nursing students at Dondi Hospital; supervision of field-work assignments; and Treasurer of the mission institution.

To the Angolans' political and economic oppression by the Portuguese colonial rulers, add the accompanying problems of urbanization, deurbanization and all the crises of 20th century Africa, and you have a surface glimpse of the tremendous challenge which keeps Joyce Myers in Angola and binds her to her colleagues engaged in the training of African pastors and Christian Education workers.

Children Make Music Early

BY PERRY CRAVEN

What plays quarter notes on a one-sixteenth size violin in four/ four time?

It's half-pints and they're having no small measure of success.

Children as young as 3 years are part of a stringed instrument program here that gets boys and girls thinking about coordination, reading, hearing and musicology while they still have time enough to pull them all together.

And if the children are learning, the teacher is learning more.

"I used to think that all you had to do to teach children was what was right. But I forgot that children have ideas too," said Dr. Malvin Artley.

For over 20 years Dr. Artley has been combining "what was right" and the ideas of children to teach music.

Prepares to Teach

"I think why we have such poor responses as adults," he said, "is because adults never had experiences with music as children."

Five years ago Dr. Artley left the Burlington public school system where he had hundreds of students studying stringed instruments to join the faculty of music education at Elon College because, as he said, "I was ready."

In much the same way, Dr.

WITH AN ENTHUSIASTIC PRESCHOOLERS LIKE JILL VINOL.

Artley had left college teaching 10 years earlier to work in the public schools because he "was ready."

What he was doing was systematically preparing himself to teach stringed instruments to children.

He left college teaching because he was sparked by a teaching demonstration he had seen in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1949, when a quarter of 5-year-olds played violins.

The demonstration predicted by several years the Western world's learning of the now famous Suzuki approach to teaching music to pre-school children.

No Lid on Learning

He remembered that while the results were hardly beautiful music, that the youngsters had played at all was exciting and Dr. Artley spent years thinking about such a program before he took the step.

"The answer seemed to be to go out into the public schools to get the kids," he said, and he eventually went to Burlington and stayed 10 years. The school system boasted several orchestras and hundreds of music students during his time there and still has an active stringed instrument program.

He's back in college teaching now, teaching others how to teach children, but he still conducts his own program.

"It's called an experimental enrichment program for children," said Dr. Artley, "and I try anything I can. Whatever I can steal that will work, I use. There's no lid on learning."

There seems to be no lid either on the patience and enthusiasm Dr. Artley has for teaching children.

Child Feels at Home

Working with 35 students and five sizes of instruments, with individuals and groups, he begins by letting a child move to music—marching, and then marching and clapping hands. A child is made to feel at home and to move his whole body freely before he begins to move only his fingers.

By considering how a child goes about trying to duplicate on his small violin the sound he hears on the piano, his teacher knows how much ear training the child will need.

Lessons move through large, colorful charts to black and white music books; from making sounds alone to making sounds in groups; then to the bowing technique, slides, and key change.

The progression is to the more complicated in music understanding and performance as Dr. Artley moves a child to hearing composition both vertically and Steve Harper, a senior at Elon College, and an assistant in the program.

Many parents have the same idea.

Watching her children Wayne, 5 and Jill, 3, do the "goody goody gum drop" rhythm practice and finding 1, 2, 3, or open A on their small violins, Mrs. Burton Stuart said she hoped they would develop an appreciation of music and some beginning skills.

Mrs. Stuart drives from Greensboro twice a week to keep the children's appointments, but others drive farther.

Mrs. Mark Popkin of Lockland Avenue in Winston-Salem, drives the 130 miles back and forth weekly to take Laird, 7, and Benjamin, 3, to class.

Mr. Popkin plays the bassoon in the Clarion Quintet.

Mrs. Popkin said she doesn't know if she has budding musicians in tow although Laird after three lessons, "is dedicated and wants to be a musician."

Benjamin, she said, "grins and enjoys the music."

Other students have come from Asheville, Gibsonville, Burlington and Chapel Hill.

While the young people who run enthusiastically to get their violin classes to get their "E, E, E," as they recognize what note a class is practicing are a joy to Dr. Artley, his pride are those students no longer there.

DR. MALVIN ARTLEY WORKS WITH HIS CHILDREN MELANIE, 6 AND KEVIN, 8 AFTER SCHOOL.

The program aims to get children playing together in trios and quartets using violin, viola and violoncello as opposed to the Suzuki approach which emphasizes the individual's playing.

As far as Dr. Artley knows there is no other program in the nation which takes quite the approach and has operated as long.

"It teaches self-control and it's good to have the experience early whether or not it does a child any good musically," said

He has 15 former students who are now teaching stringed instruments and "lots of housewives who play in an orchestra wherever they are living."

But all his students, past and present, have the kind of life Dr. Artley would wish for everyone—one made fuller with music.

EMANONS TO TOUR PUERTO RICO

The Elon College jazz ensemble, The Emanons, have just been notified that the group will play a six-day tour in Puerto Rico as part of their winter tour of high schools and junior colleges in a four-state area.

According to Jack O. White, director of The Emanons, the group will do six three-hour shows at the Roosevelt Roads Naval Station in Puerto Rico. The entire twenty-one member group will perform six nightly shows at the base theater and at the Officers' and NCO's Clubs, and then will be sent into a rock group for shows at the Enlisted Men's Club, and a jazz group, for the Family Club.

"We're real excited about this tour," said White. "The group played at the New York World's Fair in 1964 and 1965, and since that time, the word has spread about the great sound the group puts out."

When the group went to the World's Fair, then-governor Terry Sanford presented the group the rank of Ambassadors Extraordinary as goodwill ambassadors for the State of North Carolina and then presented the group with the Order of the Long Leaf Pine.

The jazz ensemble has made a tour of high schools in North Carolina and surrounding states almost every winter since the group was initially formed by White in 1962. This year the tour will be a part of the College curriculum in a Winter Term course called "The History of Jazz."

During the four week course, the members of the group will rehearse and be in class for a total of five hours per day prior to the tour. The new jazz course was introduced into the curriculum fall. All members of the group will receive three semester hours of junior-senior credit for the course.

During the course, the students will study the evolution of jazz from the late 19th century to the present. They will also analyze the various styles of jazz with emphasis on ensemble performance, techniques of improvisation and the contributions of jazz to the public school music program.

The Emanons will be performing before junior college audiences this year for the first time. Most of the junior college audiences will be in South Carolina prior to leaving Charleston on January 23 for Puerto Rico. The tour will begin with appearances at Western and Southern High Schools in Alamance County.

"We can't express our pleasure of being selected by the Navy to perform for our servicemen in Puerto Rico," added White. "I'm sure that they will be a good audience to play for and we're really looking forward to that part of the tour as well as the high school and junior college portion."

White is assisted in directing the jazz ensemble by Dave Bragg associate director, and Barry Simmons manager.

The group plans to cut a record this winter of the arrangements they will be playing on the tour.

Members of the group include: David Wilke Baker, trumpet, Wantag, N. Y.; David A. Bragg, associate director, Elon College; George David Cannon, trombone, Elon College; William F. Crocker, II, drums, Mayodon; J. Perry Crouch, tuba, Greensboro; Ronald Craig Crouch, trumpet, Mar-

Annual Fund Off To Good Start

The 1970 - 71 Elon College Annual Fund Campaign was officially inaugurated this past November with a mailing which included a financial report from the College and an appeal for contributions for the new year. Preliminary responses to the mailing has been good.

The Annual Fund this year will be composed of gifts received from alumni, parents, friends and others. Each of these groups will be a division within the Elon College Annual Fund. The Elon College Annual Fund replaces the Loyalty Fund. The Executive Committee of the Alumni Association at its Fall meeting approved this change in name. It means that more groups will be contributing to one overall program. Alumni gifts are still credited to classes and to individual names. At the end of the giving year all of the divisional annual funds are added to get a total Elon College Annual Fund. This new procedure will give the College a more accurate means of crediting contributions.

This year special giving clubs have been formed to provide additional opportunities for giving. The Century Club is composed of those who contribute from $100 to $499, the Oak Club from $500 to $999 and the President's Club membership represents contributions of $1,000 and over. The total of all contributions from an individual to the College within a fiscal year of June 1 thru May 31 are used in determining membership.

Over 50 Class Agents will be assisting in the campaign with this year's Alumni Annual Fund.

new format adopted for the Alumni News by the Executive Committee of the Association at their Fall meeting.

The Alumni News will be published five times annually in a four-page format as compared to the magazine format that was published three times yearly. "With the alumni newspaper," says Director of Alumni Relations Tyrone Rowell, "we can get current news to our alumni. The Executive Committee also feels that this new method will give us a better way in which to maintain alumni communications."

The newspaper will be published in the months of February, April, June, August and November. The most popular sections of the magazine will be retained, specifically class notes, personal items, (births, marriages, deaths) and news of interest about the College.

Alumni are encouraged to submit items about themselves or other alumni for use in the Alumni News. If you are planning to move be sure and send a change of address to the College.

College Administration Lends An Ear

Members of the administrative staff of Elon College are "lending an ear" this semester in an effort to bridge the communications gap between college officials and students.

More than twenty members of the Elon administrative staff are devoting an hour each week outside their offices to listen to student opinions, suggestions, and criticisms. The objective, according to Elon President J. E. Daniele, is to meet and to converse with students in the student center instead of waiting for the students to come to the offices.

By "lending an ear," school officials are able to keep abreast of what the students are thinking and discussing while the students get a chance to "sound off" without having to make appointments or leave the more informal atmosphere of the Center.

"When a student has a question or complaint," says Dr.

Daniele, "we may be able to give him an answer that is right away. If we don't have the answer, we attempt to get it as soon as possible."

"By meeting in an informal setting, the students feel more at ease than in an office, and this process also saves time by avoiding the necessity of having to make appointments," added Dr. Daniele.

The program should help to eliminate unfounded rumors on the campus before they get blown out of proportion as so often happens on a college campus.

At the end of the semester, the project is to be evaluated before deciding whether it should be continued.

"We believe that the program is working. The students should feel more opportunity to talk with us and that will benefit the entire college community," concluded the Elon President.

PHYSICAL PLANT

NEW PHYSICAL EDUCATION FACILITY IN USE

Elon College's new addition to Alumni Memorial Gymnasium has greatly eased the crowded conditions experienced by the physical education department during the past several years and at the same time is allowing an expanded program of instruction.

The new physical education facility, connected to the north side of the gym, was put in use partially during the last few weeks of summer school. This structure houses, among other things, a 72' x 42' Olympic swimming pool with six swimming lanes, a one-meter diving board and a three-meter diving board.

"The swimming pool is something that Elon has needed for years," says Terry Wills, assistant director of athletics. "It is felt that every student who attends Elon College, unless physically handicapped, should know how to swim before he graduates. The College has made it a requirement for graduation that a student pass a swimming test or take a swimming course."

The single story building also contains six offices for physical education faculty members, two classrooms, a handball court, a wrestling room, a weight-lifting room, a gymnasium for P.E. classes and locker rooms and showers.

"The new facility will really be of great benefit to the college's physical education program and to its intramural program," says Wills. "We can offer additional competitive programs for intramurals." A women's synchronized swimming group is already being formed and handball has been introduced to the intramural program.

"From the students' point of view, the swimming pool is probably the most popular area of the new facility," concluded Wills. "It is in constant use. This spring we plan to offer a course in scuba diving as an extracurricular activity."

Homecoming

THE SPIRIT OF '70

Elon College celebrated its 1970 Homecoming football game in traditional fashion Saturday, October 24 when it scored a touchdown in the last three minutes to come from behind and claim a 10-7 victory over highly favored Catawba College. It was the first win of the year for the Fighting Christians. Freshman quarterback Jimmy Twisdale, from Henderson, N.C., came off the bench when starter Steve Rumley left the game with a broken collarbone. Twisdale threw a 40-yard pass to end David Rudder who caught the ball in the end zone for the score.

The Homecoming festivities started on Friday night as members of the student body participated in a talent show held in Whitley Auditorium. The Saturday morning reception was held from 9:30 - 12:00 in the new physical education building. For many alumni this was their first opportunity to inspect the gym facilities. The swimming pool was reserved and many children of alumni brought swim suits to help celebrate the occasion.

The Homecoming parade had a number of good entries as the students pursued the theme "The Spirit of '70." Spectators were treated to the sight of a 1922 Stanley Steamer driven by Mr. R. A. Gibbs of Greensboro.

The post-game reception was held in honor of Owing M. Davidson, Sr., a graduate in the class of 1905. A large gathering of alumni was on hand to help celebrate the occasion and stayed for the buffet dinner held in Harden Cafeteria.

The Fighting Christians finished the season with three victories and seven defeats.

AT THE ANNUAL TALENT SHOW SARA DRAPER WON FIRST PLACE BY SINGING AND PLAYING HER GUITAR.

Electronic Piano Lab Installed

As many as 18 students at a time may have piano instruction at Elon College under one instructor with the establishment of a new piano laboratory.

In use for the first time this Fall, the laboratory consists of 18 electronic pianos and a master console from which the instructor can "tune in" on any one or more students in the class. The equipment was installed by C. B. Ellis Music Company of Burlington under the supervision of Jimmy Perkins.

According to Dean C. Fletcher Moore, chairman of the Music Department, the laboratory is being used by students of music education and music theory, as well as beginning and elementary students of piano.

Piano students may also use the laboratory for practice, since the individual units are independent of the master console and allow the student complete privacy when using the earphones. The master console is also equipped with tape cassettes for programmed instruction and for recording student performances and an electronic metronome for rhythm instruction.

Later in the year, the laboratory will be equipped with one of the latest audio visual aids in the music field. An electronic wallboard, containing a diagram of a piano keyboard and a musical staff, will show on the diagrams the musical notes being played by the instructor at the master console.

The laboratory also is equipped with an overhead projector so that musical scores can be shown to the entire class.

The music department had a consultant on campus this Fall to present the techniques used in teaching in the new laboratory. At that time, area music teachers were invited to the campus to hear the consultant.

Some piano classes are being conducted in the laboratory for area music students.

Elon Recruiting Alumni Children

The Elon College Admissions Office has been actively recruiting students for the 1971 fall semester. Through the use of two full-time staff persons, the College has been represented at many North Carolina and Virginia high school college day programs.

As part of their recruitment efforts, the College would like for children of alumni to receive special information concerning admissions at Elon College. This would include a special admissions newsletter which is mailed once a month to prospective students. It highlights the actions and activities occurring on campus.

Alumni are asked to submit the names and birth dates of their children to the Admissions Office.

This information will be kept on file until the year the student becomes a high school junior or senior. At that time they would automatically start receiving admissions information from the College.

To take advantage of this service, return this form to the Director of Admissions, Box 2192, Elon College, Elon College, North Carolina 27244.

Positive Steps Taken In Financial Planning

Faced with rapidly increasing costs and the necessity of operating under a balanced budget, Elon College is taking positive steps to avert the financial crisis being faced by many of America's colleges and universities.

According to an announcement by Elon's president, Dr. J. E. Danielewicz, Elon College will face this increasingly difficult financial problem by making several cutbacks in the overall program of the College.

"The College is not in financial trouble," emphasized Dr. Danielewicz, "but we are taking these measures that we feel are necessary to assure a continued sound financial position. Elon College is very fortunate in that we have not had an operating deficit for many years," he added. "This year we will probably have a slight deficit — smaller than we had first anticipated — but it is not a serious situation and we do have a reserve fund which we have held for such a problem."

Elon started out the current year on a balanced budget, but the anticipated number of entering students did not show up leaving a few vacant dormitory rooms and some costs increased unexpectedly. However, the spring semester enrollment is higher than last year's and is higher than was anticipated for this year.

Previously, Elon officials began cutbacks by eliminating the major in home economics. This year further cutbacks were achieved by eliminating purchases in several departments, by not funding the publication of the literary magazine, by changing the alumni publication from a magazine format to a newspaper format, and by not publishing the school paper, Ammunition, the school newsletter, the COMMUNICATOR, is published weekly in place of the school paper.

Next year in order to operate under a balanced budget, Elon will eliminate the B.S. degree in chemistry, but will continue to offer the B. A. degree in chemistry. The B.S. degree offerings provided are too costly and too few were graduating in this field.

Other cutbacks will come in the drama program. Course enrollments have been too low, facilities are not adequate for a proper operation. Anticipating not available to provide better facilities.

Additional cutbacks will also affect personnel. The overall student-faculty ratio at Elon is too low from the standpoint of economic operation. Anticipating the same enrollment next year as this year, Elon will have to make some reductions in the faculty.

Operation under a balanced budget will also require a reduction in course offerings in some areas where enrollment in these courses is too low. Departmental studies this spring will determine which courses will be eliminated.

Compared to the general picture of independent colleges across North Carolina and the nation, Elon College has a better than average record of operation financially. According to Dr. Danielewicz, however, improvements can be made and are being planned.

One of these plans calls for a slight increase in tuition of $90 and a 10% increase in dormitory rent. Even with this increase Elon's tuition is lower than the average private senior institution in North Carolina, but in order to operate under a balanced budget for 1971-72, these increases are necessary.

"This series of actions represents the most difficult decisions I have faced in more than thirteen and one-half years as president of the College," Dr. Danielewicz said in making the announcement. "Programs are being discontinued in which I have had a great interest; positions are being discontinued which are now held by colleagues and friends. There is, however, no alternation but to make the decisions demanded by the facts which we face and to take the actions which will insure the future of the College. To fail to face the facts or to fail to act would be an abrogation of my responsibility and unworthy of my position."

Annual Fund Nearing Goal

The 1970 - 71 Elon College Alumni Annual Fund is well on its way to reaching its $25,000 goal for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1971.

This annual solicitation of funds is conducted with the assistance of alumni who serve as class agents representing each of the graduated classes. When a contribution is received the amount is credited to the name and class of the alumnus.

Income received through this annual giving program represents a vital source of support for Elon College. The increased cost of operating the College has made the necessity of alumni support more important than ever before.

This is the first year that special clubs have been formed to recognize gifts to the College. The Century Club represents gifts of $100-$499, the Oak Club represents gifts from $500-$999, and the President's Club represents gifts from $1,000 and over.

All alumni are urged to support their annual fund drive. Contributions should be addressed to the Alumni Annual Fund, Elon College, Elon College, N.C. 27244

Apollo 13 Astronaut Speaker For Founders Day

Astronaut Fred W. Haise, Jr., was the speaker for Elon College's Founders Day Convocation held in Whitley Auditorium on March 26. Elon was founded March 11, 1889.

Haise, who showed a film on the flight of Apollo 13 during his talk to students, faculty and guests, was lunar module pilot for Apollo 13 in April of 1970. That flight was modified after a failure in the oxygen system was discovered. Congressman Richardson Preyer of the 6th District of North Carolina introduced the speaker to the audience. Preyer was introduced by SGA President Lee Loy of Burlington.

Other principals on the speaker's session were Founders Day included Dr. J. E. Danielewicz, president of Elon College; Alex Vardavas of Danville, Virginia, vice-president of the Student Government Association; and Marvin Morgan of Zebulon, who gave the invocation.

Following the Convocation, Haise was the guest of honor at a luncheon in McEwen Dining Hall. Members of the faculty and invited guests attended the luncheon.

An informal question and answer session was held at 1:30 in the Long Student Center after lunch so that students and faculty members could ask Haise questions about Apollo 13 and other phases of the operation of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

A brief press conference followed the question and answer session for the benefit of the press who were on campus to cover Haise's visit.

"We were quite pleased that Astronaut Fred Haise was able to include a visit to Elon in his crowded schedule," said Dr. Danielewicz of the Founders Day speaker. "We are grateful to Senator B. Everett Jordan, one of our trustees, for his efforts in arranging this significant program for our area."

Spring Sports Begin

The hint of spring in the air has brought out the best of Elon's baseball, tennis, golf and track and field players as they try to get themselves into playing shape for their spring sports schedule.

And Coach Red Wilson has his prospective gridlers going through spring drills as he tries to bring the Carolina Conference championship back to Elon.

All the spring sport coaches believe their teams are well on their way towards getting ready for the season. The baseball team got into action March 16 and the tennis team March 16. The golf and track teams had longer to practice before their schedules began.

He scored 672 points, making the second season in a row in which he has scored over 600 points, and Cole moved to the number five spot among the Elton top career scorers. Cole has 1641 points in his three seasons for the Fighting Christians.

Sweeping Changes Made In Graduation Requirements

The Elton College Faculty has approved a Curriculum Committee recommendation for the most sweeping changes in the requirements for graduation from Elton College in a quarter of a century.

The proposals have been in the working stages since the Fall of 1970 when Dr. J. E. Danieley, Elton's president, announced a major study of the curriculum of the College. The first phase of the study was designed to involve every member of the faculty and an equal number of students.

One hundred and five students from Elton's student body, appointed by SGA President Lee Loy, played a large part in the development of the new general education curriculum and will play a large part in phase two of the study in departmental requirements that will be forthcoming in the next several months.

Reports from all of the 21 committees were made available to all faculty, all student committee members, and generally available in the library for all students. The reports were submitted to the Curriculum Committee of the faculty which consists of the academic deans, the department chairmen or their designees, and four students with voice privileges. The report of the Curriculum Committee was presented to the faculty at their last meeting by Dean of the College, Fletcher Moore.

Generally the new requirements will give the individual student more choice in deciding which courses he wishes to take during his or her four year course of study.

After a study of all of the reports made by the twenty-one faculty - student committees (made up of five students and five faculty members each), the Curriculum Committee recommended and the faculty voted the following changes in graduation requirements:

1. Minimum of 126 semester hours. Each student must have twice as many quality points as credit hours attempted.
2. Satisfactory work in one major subject.

was named to the all-tournament teams in the Burlington Turkey Classic, the Triad Classic, the Gardner-Webb tournament, and the Carolinas Conference tournament. He was named the Most Valuable Player in the Carolinas Conference tourney.

He has been named to numerous other all-star teams including the All - Carolinas Conference squad, the All-NAIA District 26 team, the Greensboro Daily News Carolinas Conference All-Star squad, and recently was named to the Greensboro Daily News All-State team.

Cole was selected as the Greensboro Daily News Athlete of the Week on two occasions and was also the Carolinas Conference Player of the Week.

3. Completion of general education distribution as follows:

- A. Humanities.....24.s.h.
- (1) Religion.....6.s.h.*
- (2) Language & Literature.....12.s.h.
- Choose from English, French, German, Latin, Spanish or Greek
- (3) Other Humanities.....6.s.h.
- Choose from art, fine arts, foreign culture, music, philosophy, public speaking, religion
- B. Social Sciences.....12.s.h.
- Choose from anthropology, economics, geography, history, political science, psychology, sociology
- C. Mathematics & Natural Sciences.....10.s.h.
- Choose from biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics, natural sciences, physics
- D. Physical Education.....2.s.h.
- Choose from activities courses

Total of general education requirements.....48.s.h.

Electives: variable, depending upon quantitative requirements in the field of the major.

The level of any course permitted to be taken by a student will be limited only by the student's competence and preparation.

4. One full academic year of study at Elton, including the last term of study before graduation.

5. Participation in commencement exercises.

"The change in graduation requirements is a very important move by Elton College in the direction of giving more flexibility to the student in choosing courses which are of interest to him," said Dr. Danieley of the new requirements. "Although we will continue to require study in each of the major areas of knowledge which have been characteristic of the liberal arts tradition in this country, we will permit the student to have more freedom in selecting the individual courses which he will study. This action is in keeping with present day trends in leading colleges and universities in the United States.

"It is highly significant that such a large number of students participated in the study," he added. "They seriously studied and carefully considered the questions involved in setting graduation requirements and were of tremendous assistance to us in this important study."

Part two of the study will involve a study of the course offerings at the departmental level. A student committee is working in each department in this phase of the study.

Board Grants S.G.A. Requests

The Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of Elton College voted in January to grant two requests from the Student Government Association that will permit students over 21 years of age to live off-campus and allow open house in the women's dormitories each Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

The requests were presented to the Executive Committee by Lee Loy, president of the Student Government Association, and Miss Lois Matheny, representing the women students.

After the committee approved the requests, Loy said, "As president of the Student Government Association, I have stood firm in my belief that progressive changes can be achieved by working through the system. We are pleased with the response to our requests and I believe that the solutions agreed upon are acceptable to both the majority of the students and the Board."

"The Board was quite reasonable and fair in dealing with the situation," Loy added. "The Elton College students should also be commended for the patience and maturity they have displayed."

Effective in the Fall of 1971, any student who is 21 or will be 21 prior to September 1 of the academic year will be allowed to live off-campus if notification is given to college officials prior to the preceding March 1 (March 15 this year only).

The College will assume no responsibility for location or approval of off-campus activities and will not serve as an intermediary in any way between the student and his landlord.

Previously, only men students have been allowed to live off-campus and then only if they were over 21 and space was not available for them in the dormitories. All other students have been required to live on campus or with relatives.

During open house hours in the women's dorms, parents and friends, including men students, will be permitted to visit in the dormitories under guidelines to be established by the Women's Intradormitory Council and the Associate Dean of Students. The system of open house hours became effective with the beginning of the Spring semester in February.

"The change in graduation requirements is a very important move by Elton College in the direction of giving more flexibility to the student in choosing courses which are of interest to him," said Dr. Danieley of the new requirements. "Although we will continue to require study in each of the major areas of knowledge which have been characteristic of the liberal arts tradition in this country, we will permit the student to have more freedom in selecting the individual courses which he will study. This action is in keeping with present day trends in leading colleges and universities in the United States.

"It is highly significant that such a large number of students participated in the study," he added. "They seriously studied and carefully considered the questions involved in setting graduation requirements and were of tremendous assistance to us in this important study."

Part two of the study will involve a study of the course offerings at the departmental level. A student committee is working in each department in this phase of the study.

*The Faculty voted that 3 semester hours of this requirement could be chosen from philosophy. However, this change would require the approval of the Board of Trustees.

COMMENCEMENT ACTIVITIES

Elon Receives Funds and Grants Totaling $42,729.11

The North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges, of which Elon College is a charter member, raised a record amount of unrestricted funds during the past fiscal year to aid in meeting the increasing costs of operations for its 26 member schools throughout the state.

According to a report from Executive Director Brant Snavely, the Foundation raised a total of $715,008.06 during the 1970-71 fiscal year. Of this amount, $25,000 was designated for specific use by the colleges.

Sixty percent of the unrestricted funds are distributed equally among the 26 member schools and the remaining forty percent is distributed on a pro rata basis according to the student enrollment figures supplied by each member school in the fall.

Elon College's share, the third largest behind Campbell College and Wingate College, was $35,229.11.

An unrestricted grant of $2,500 has also been awarded Elon College by the ALCOA Foundation.

A 1939 graduate of the College, C. T. Holmes, presented the check to Dr. Dancley on behalf of the foundation. Mr. Holmes is manager of the Badin Works of the Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA). Mrs. Holmes, the former Gladys Wright, accompanied her husband to the College. She is a graduate of Elon in the class of 1941.

The ALCOA Foundation also contributes to the North Carolina Foundation of Church Related Colleges.

Dr. Dancley has also announced the receipt of a $5,000 Resource Grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Michigan, to assist in acquiring instructional materials for an environmental studies program that is to be initiated in the fall semester.

Dr. Robert E. Kinsinger, Kellogg Foundation Vice President, explained in a letter to the Elon president that the grant is one of approximately 300 similar grants made to small, private liberal arts colleges throughout the nation.

Dr. Dancley receives Alcoa Foundation check from Mr. Holmes.

Two hundred and fifty-six were awarded Bachelors degrees on May 23 at commencement exercises on the Elon campus by Dr. J. E. Dancley, president of the college.

Graduating seniors heard Dr. Frank R. Hamilton, pastor of the Church of the Palms in Delray Beach, Fla., explain in his address, "Thirty Seconds and Holding," that "the world today is like a huge rocket on the launching pad. It is ready to either 'blast off' in an explosion or 'lift off' in a rational, considered exploration of the wonders of our age. And all the while there is little time; people want to ignore any growth process and get to the selfish objectives as rapidly as possible."

Dr. Hamilton explained that "thirty seconds" was all the time left and that the individual's holding pattern must contain certain things, and then be outlined four "holds."

"As we congratulate you today on your attainments," he said, "and share with you the joys of this memorable occasion, we think ahead to your confronting the speedy onrush of today's society, and commend to your good judgment this 'holding process,'—a sense of historical perspective, a recognition of the need and value of disciplines, a confidence in America, at its best, and the building of a real faith in God and man."

Theron Jennings Rice, president of the graduating class, presented the College with a portable sound system as the Class of 1971's gift to the College. Dr. Dancley accepted the gift on behalf of the College.

Special music was provided by the College Choir, under the direction of Professor Richard Apperson, who also accompanied on the organ. Dean C. Fletcher Moore presented the candidates to Dr. J. E. Dancley, president of the College, who conferred the degrees. Dr. William J. Elzey gave the invocation.

Also during the graduation exercises, Dr. Dancley announced the winners of three awards given annually at graduation. The W. L. Monroe Christian Education and Personality Awards were presented to Esther Ferreiro Grosse of Greensboro and Thomas Norval James of Baldwin, N.Y.

Dr. Dancley also announced that the Ella Brunk Smith Memorial Award had been awarded to Susan Elma Peil of Fayetteville.

Dr. Dancley also gave the charge to the graduating class and the closing prayer. After receiving their degrees, seniors were presented copies of the Holy Bible, made possible by the T. B. Dawson Memorial Bible Fund. Those seniors who graduated cum laude included Jennifer Austin of Burlington, William Boswell of Elon College, Clyde Carelock of Elon College, Marilyn Commerce of Vienna, Va., Herndon Harrison of Gibsonville, Glenda Hinkshaw of Burlington, Joann Lockwood of North Palm Beach, Fla., Harmon Lee Loy of Burlington, Carolyn Overstreet of Tappahannock, Va., Alice Reavis of Burlington, Brenda Saunders of Edon, Pamela Spivey of Richmond, Va., and Mickey Stuart of Speedwell, Va. Faculty Couple Visits Russia

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Sloan

Horace Greeley's advice, "Go west, young man, go west," was heard by Mrs. Sloan and me as we planned our third trip around the world, each time westward. Lays were a little more than twenty-four hours long; so each trip we lost a day. President Daneley recently went around the world eastward, thus gaining a day. I asked the mathematics department how many such trips would be necessary for President Daneley and me to be the same age.

Mrs. Sloan and I spent two weeks in Korea and Japan, visiting friends, doing some speaking - college, church, radio - attending Expo 70.

In Tokyo we joined twenty other adventurers, all people who had traveled extensively and were determined to see seldom visited Asiatic Russia and Outer Mongolia. We left Yokohama by a Russian ship to Nakhodka. There we boarded the Trans-Siberian railway and went five hundred miles north along the Amur River Chinese border to Khabarovsk. Mrs. Sloan and I had an interesting conversation with the engineer of the electric diesel train, an English - speaking member of the Communist party. He was eager to read English language magazines and wanted me to send him a copy of the life of his American hero, Marilyn Monroe. He referred to teachers as "engineers of the soul."

All tourism in the U.S.S.R. is directed by the government agency, Intourist. At Khabarovsk we met the dictatorial control of Communist government. We had paid for all costs, but the Intourist guide, a pleasant young woman speaking good English, announced that she would take us for a ride on the river, that each of us would have to pay $1.50. We said we were not interested in the river, but had been promised we should be shown industry, education, and agriculture enterprises, and a Young Pioneer camp. We were told that none of these was possible. When I asked about a church the reply was that Khabarovsk was a new city and naturally had no churches. The guide admitted she had lied, but insisted she was not allowed to tell us where they were.

We were not forbidden to wander around as we pleased, but were told that any minute word might come from Aeroflot, the government airline - and there is no other - that it was time to go to the airport. No one in the U.S.S.R. seems to know when a plane will leave. We were taken to the airport at 5:00 P.M. The plane finally left around 2:00 A.M. and took us westward more than a thousand miles to Irkutsk. In the land of the Communists we made approximately twenty-five flights. Only two started near the scheduled time. However, foreigners always got seats. Russians got those left. Many had to wait for another plane. A guide explained that that was not bad, for they seldom had to wait more than twenty-four hours.

Irkutsk, in Siberia proper, had a reputation of being much freer. Our local guide put herself out to get us anything we wanted. We had been promised that a courier would meet us at shipside and would coordinate our program from city to city, but at Irkutsk no courier had yet appeared. We wired Moscow asking that our local guide be given the appointment. Our request was confirmed, but then a young man who had never been in Asia was flown out to take over. Promises after promises were broken all along the way.

So much for headaches - there were plenty more. There were many compensations for those who were patient and willing to listen to, sift, and analyze the constant flood of Communist propaganda. I don't see how the dullest American could hear this and conclude that Communism is better than Democracy.

Lee Chosen As Outstanding Alumnus

Robert E. Lee, superintendent of the Moore County School System and a 1940 graduate of Elon College, received the college's Outstanding Alumnus Award at Alumni Day ceremonies on the Elon campus, May 22, 1971.

The announcement of the award recipient came during Alumni Association President C. Carl Woods, Jr., of Durham and Tyrone Rowell, Director of Alumni Relations for the College.

The award was presented at the annual Alumni Banquet in McEwen Dining Hall by Dr. James H. Lighthourne, Jr., of Burlington, a 1942 graduate of Elon.

The recipient of the Outstanding Alumnus Award has been employed by the Moore County School System since he graduated from Elon, starting as a teacher in 1946. In addition to teaching, he also coached football, baseball and basketball and produced several county and state championship teams.

Lee advanced from the teaching ranks to take on the duties of a principal in one of Moore County's elementary schools and then was named principal of Aberdeen High School where the curriculum was expanded and the school became a member of the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges under his leadership.

After receiving his B.A. degree from Elon, Lee attended the University of North Carolina where he received his Masters degree in education and has taken additional graduate work.

During his ten-year tenure as superintendent, Lee has overseen the merger of three administrative schools into one for the entire county, the consolidation of fifteen small high schools into three comprehensive high schools that offer more than 100 subjects as compared to the old curriculum of 30 subjects, the remodeling of the elementary schools, the complete integration of the school system, the building of a new administrative building, garage and shop, the passage of a $4 million bond issue, and many other innovations.

For his many efforts, Lee has been in great demand as a speaker for workshops, seminars and educational meetings. He also received honorable mention for the Terry Sanford Award for innovations in education.

Lee is also active in church and civic work. He serves as a lay speaker, Sunday school teacher, superintendent of Sunday school, president of the Methodist Men and on the Board of Stewards for his church. He is a past president of the Rotary Club and a former member of the Lions Club. He also served as chairman of the first United Fund Campaign in Moore County.

In addition to these duties and his many hobbies, which include the raising of 13 bird dogs and about 400 parakeets, he has also served as a past president of the North Carolina Education Association and the N. C. High School Athletics Association.

Visits Russia

Equality of the sexes is extensive. Would women's lib people be happy in Russia? Road-building, garbage, brick-masons, etc. have many changes in men. The president of Uzbekistan is a woman electrical engineer. Forty per cent of the members of the Uzbekistan legislature are women. This is also true of the national law-making body, but making laws is almost entirely giving approval to bills presented by the top officials of the Communist party.

Asiatic Russia has great resources in water power, timber, oil, coal, iron, and precious metals. It will boom as our west has done in the past hundred years. With Asiatic Russia a third larger than our forty-eight states we cannot minimize the importance of this part of the world we have scarcely realized existing. Man-hour production in agriculture and manufacturing is much inferior to ours, but is increasing rapidly.

Medical services and education up through universities are all "free." Rent, including all utilities, is extremely low. Cities have excellent bus and trolley service, but private automobiles are almost unknown. The lowest priced car costs from $5,500 to $6,500. However, next year Russian made Fiats will be available and people will start demanding cars. Nearly every family has a T.V. A guide explained, "We want everybody to have T.V., so we put up the price of alcoholic drinks and cut the price of T.V.s." When all manufacturing and merchandising is conducted by the government such juggling can be done. When people recall what their grandparents had they are happy with Communism.

Our eight days in Outer Mongolia, three of them in the Mongolian Desert, and thirteen days in European Russia are stories of their own. I had been in Moscow and Leningrad four years ago and also fourteen years ago. Otherwise the Russian trip covered new territory. This was my eighteenth time abroad. There are no large sections of the world we have not seen. Mrs. Sloan and I expect to be abroad other times, but I doubt that we shall again visit U.S.S.R.

Governmental Aid Seen As Solution

By MELVIN L. SHREAVES

ELON NEWS BUREAU DIRECTOR

The only practical solution to the financial problems of the private colleges and universities of North Carolina is governmental aid to students to permit them to attend the institutions of their choice.

This was the view of Elon College President Dr. J. E. Danielely in a recent interview as he approached the beginning of his 15th year on July 1 as president of the co-educational, church-related college.

He noted that according to the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, about two-thirds of all colleges and universities in the United States are "in financial difficulty" or are "headed for financial trouble."

The North Carolina General Assembly has passed enabling legislation during the current session for aid to students in higher education. This aid would be available for students in public and private institutions, but funds have not been appropriated for this program.

The House has passed a bill to provide student aid specifically for students in the private colleges. The aid would be administered by the colleges and funds would be provided to the colleges on the basis of a certain amount per student. The bill is presently in the Senate but again no funds are provided in the bill.

"Some of the stronger institutions will be able to survive without state aid," explained Dr. Danielely. "However, they will be forced to be high tuition institutions catering largely to those who can afford to pay. This would be extremely unfortunate, in my opinion."

"It would be highly desirable to have enough gifts from individuals, foundations, business and industry, along with increased support from church groups to underwrite the increased costs of operation," he added, "but there is almost no possibility of achieving this goal."

He warned that if private institutions do receive state aid, the institutions and the state government must guard against regulations which will change the character of the institutions.

"This is one of the reasons why I favor aid to the student or Dr. Danielely also stated that the State pays the college a stated sum for the service it renders to the student," he explained. "Both of these plans should avoid state control of educational policies."

Dr. Danielely also stated that he thought the federal government should assist in underwriting a variety of student aid programs and in providing funds for interest subsidies for needed building construction. "It is also likely to be necessary for the federal government to make some institutional grants to the private colleges and universities," he added.

The Elon president pointed out that approximately 47,000 students are enrolled in the private colleges and universities of North Carolina, which is approximately 33.6 percent of the total enrollment in the state.

He defended the dual system of higher education with state-supported institutions and private institutions by stating that the dual system is more economical to the state and, thereby, the taxpayers; that it provides a greater variety of opportunity for the students; that it encourages quality education; that it gives the public the protection of strong competition in the private sector of higher education; and it provides the possibility of high quality selective institutions.

Dr. Danielely also stated that the trend seems to be away from church - college relationships which have been traditional. "Some colleges seem apologetic about a church relationship," he explained, "and most of the denominations are failing to give significant support to their colleges."

When asked why church support has not increased in the light of increased expenses, Dr. Danielely answered, "Most of the denominations are in financial trouble aside from the problems being faced by the institutions of higher education. Not only are they having difficulty meeting their budgets, but many of them face severe problems in determining priorities among the needs which are presented to them. There is also the increasing tendency to expect that the government will do whatever is necessary to meet the need."

A question frequently asked of private higher education institutions is whether they are able to attract high quality faculty members. "The private institutions must pay salaries and provide fringe benefits which are

Alumni Office Has New Face

P. W. BENTON, JR.

Personnel changes involving the office of alumni relations have been made at Elon College according to Dr. J. E. Danielely, president of the College.

P. W. Benton, Jr., assistant dean of students, has been named director of alumni relations for the coming year to succeed alumni officer, Tyrone Rowell, who is taking a one - year leave of absence for advanced study at Appalachian State University.

Benton, a graduate of Elon in the class of 1968, has been assistant dean of students since February of 1968. He previously had attended Eastern College and is presently working towards his master's degree at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. He has been associated with the Citizens Trust Company in Portsmouth, Va., and the Bank of Nansemond in Driver, Va., before attending Elon.

A native of Suffolk, Virginia, and the son of Mrs. Annie Jordan Benton and the late Mr. Benton, he is married to the former Ruth Fry of Petersburg, Virginia. The Bentons have one son, Philip.

Rowell, a native of Henderson, has been director of alumni relations at Elon since 1968. Previously he was associate director of alumni relations for one year and was assistant promotion director at WPMY-TV in Greensboro. An Elon graduate in the class of 1960, he has also served in the United States Army.

Rowell and his wife, the former Pearl Robinson of Valdese, are both enrolled in ASU's graduate studies program.

Summer Graduates Receive Degrees

Mrs. Adeline L. Gutweiler, '51, was on hand this summer to see both of her daughters, Janice and Barbara, graduate with the class of 1971. Janice and Barbara's father, the late Clinton Horner, was also an Elon graduate in the class of 1950.

Dr. Clyde Fields, associate conference minister for Eastern North Carolina of the Southern Conference, United Church of Christ, was the speaker at summer commencement exercises at Elon College Sunday, August 15.

The Commencement program was held in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium at 10:30, at which time 76 seniors were awarded Bachelor of Arts degrees. This year's summer graduating class was the largest group to be awarded degrees at a summer graduation. An additional 255 members of the Class of 1971 received their degrees in May.

In addition to Dr. Fields, others on the program for graduates included Dr. J. E. Danielely, president of Elon College, who conferred the degrees and presented a charge to the graduates, Dr. William J. Elzey, associate professor of religion and philosophy, who gave the prayer; Mrs. Terrell Coffield, assistant professor of music, who sang; and Dean C. Fletcher Moore, Dean of the College, who presented the candidates and served as organist.

Dean W. Jennings Berry was faculty marshal for the summer commencement and the student marshals included John Dean McBrayer, chief student marshal, Linda Potter Schloss, Dale Anne Price, Elizabeth Anne Sprinkle, Kerry Jay Gilliland, Richard Lee Davis and Ervin Clayton Edwards.

Dr. Hook Honored On 80th Birthday

Students, faculty and friends attend Dr. Hook's 80th birthday.

Classes at Elon College were suspended Monday morning, July 19, for a short period as faculty and students joined in wishing happy returns of the day to a man who has spent 37 years as a member of the College faculty and who was celebrating his 80th birthday.

Dr. A. L. Hook was honored at a birthday celebration on the William S. Long Student Center patio as friends, faculty and students congratulated him on his four score birthday and his many accomplishments during the 37 years that he has been on the Elon faculty.

Dr. Hook, known to nearly every student who has ever attended the church-related college since the turn of the century, joined the Elon College faculty in 1914 after receiving his undergraduate degree in 1913 and a masters degree in 1914, both from Elon. He did additional graduate work at John Hopkins University and received another masters degree from Cornell University.

Since 1914, he and his wife have been as closely associated with Elon as the Senior Oak that has been the landmark on the college campus since it was founded in 1889. He has served in many varied capacities including that of professor of physics and mathematics, Dean of the College, Dean of Men and Registrar, sometimes all at the same time.

When the Little Six split in 1930 to form the North State Conference, Dr. Hook was one of those who helped get the ball rolling for the six small schools, Atlantic Christian, Catawba, Guilford, High Point, Lenoir Rhyne and Elon, and an additional member, Appalachian. He served as president of the North State Conference on several occasions and is one of the four persons to serve as Commissioner of the conference.

When the conference admitted South Carolina colleges into the group, the name was changed to the Carolinas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference in 1961. He continued to serve as Elon's faculty representative to the CIAAC until just a few years ago.

At the present time, Dr. Hook serves as Dean Emeritus. He retired from active teaching in mathematics and physics several years ago, but is always ready to fill in for a sick teacher when called upon.

Dr. Hook has long been associated with Elon's athletic program and has served as the College's faculty representative in all three conferences of which Elon has been a member—the North Carolina Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, the North State Intercollegiate Athletic Conference and the present Carolinas Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

"North Carolina's first intercollegiate athletic group, the old NCIAAC, was my idea," said Dr. Hook recently, "and I really worked to get it going. When it was formed, the teams included the Big Four and the Little Six. Elon was one of the Little Six and Trinity (now Duke University), Carolina, State and Wake Forest made up the Big Four. We played them all, but we didn't beat them all at the time."

Elon's Fiscal Year Ends On Good Note

Elon College had a banner year during the 1970-71 fiscal year that included a $10,000 excess in income over expenses in the current operations budget and a $26,963 increase in total voluntary support to the College excluding government grants.

This was the report heard last month by the Elon College Development Council, chaired by Dr. T. Edward Powell III, as the group met to plan for the 1971-72 fund raising campaign for the College.

The $10,000 excess in operating funds was reported by Dr. J. E. Dancley, president of Elon College, who explained that the College had anticipated a one percent ($30,000) deficit in the operating budget early in the fiscal year and met the problem head-on by making necessary cutbacks, eliminating items in the budget and holding a tight rein on spending.

"This is a very fortunate situation," related Dr. Dancley in his report. "Many institutions, some widely known and highly respected, wish they could say the same."

"The difference between the anticipated deficit and the $10,000 balance of income over expenses," Dr. Dancley added, "was a 44.6 percent increase in gifts for operational expenses that totaled $178,309.31 as compared to $123,308 the previous year. That's an increase of more than $55,000."

A report by Charles A. Hutcherson, director of development, showed that total voluntary support to the College came to $386,056.25, exclusive of government grants. This was a 7.5 percent increase over fiscal year 1969-70.

"We had a very good year," Hutcherson reported. "While the record for the past year seems to be good, it is not enough. Faced with continually rising costs of operations, we must continue to seek new sources of support and increased levels of giving in order to keep tuition and fees at their traditionally low level."

"Total costs to our students are still below the average of private colleges in our area," he affirmed, "so keeping tuition and fees at low levels is possible consistent with our educational goals," concluded Hutcherson.

The development office of the College has been laying detailed plans for the fund raising campaign for 1971-72 with conferences held with fund chairmen of all publics in preparation for the July meeting of the Council. Goals set by each chairman and strategy for achieving these goals were outlined at the meeting.

Reports were heard from James Brewer, chairman of the Burlington Area Fund, DeRoy Fomville, vice-chairman of the Alumni Annual Fund, Dr. Robert Delph, chairman of the Faculty Annual Fund, George Colclough, chairman of the Estate Planning Fund, Dr. J. L. Crumpton, chairman of the Trustees Annual Fund, John Elmore of the Students Annual Fund and Clyde Gordon, chairman of the Firms and Foundations Annual Fund. Reports were also heard from the Parents Annual Fund, and the Churches Annual Fund.

"The real success of last year's successful campaign -- and the key to success during the coming year -- the untiring efforts of our volunteer fund chairmen and the many other alumni and friends who work hard to achieve and exceed our goals," stated Hutcherson.

BOARD NAMES NEW TRUSTEES

A Burlington doctor and a 1970 graduate from Orange, Va., have been named to serve as members of the Elon College Board of Trustees, according to an announcement by Elon's president, Dr. J. E. Dancley.

Dr. Samuel E. Scott, a graduate of the University of North Carolina and the UNC School of Medicine, was elected by the Board to serve a full four-year term replacing Mr. W. L. Gregory of Virginia, Va.

Mrs. Cleo Perdue Short, a 1970 graduate of Elon College, was elected to serve a two-year term replacing William Herbert, a member of Elon's Class of 1968.

A member and deacon at the Union Ridge United Church of Christ, Dr. Scott practices medicine at the Scott Clinic at Union

Ridge and on the staff of Memorial Hospital of Alamance County. He is a member of the Alamance-Caswell Medical Society, the American Medical Association, the American Academy of General Practice and a Diplomat of the American Board of Family Practice (the newest specialty board).

Upon receiving his M.D. degree, Dr. Scott served his internship and residency at the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock. He then served as a medical officer with the rank of Captain in the U. S. Air Force.

Before attending Carolina, Dr. Scott attended Pleasant Grove School and then finished high school at Woodberry Forest School in Virginia. He is married to the former Connie Thaggard of Parkton and they have two children, Edwin, 7 and Amy, 4.

Mrs. Short, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Perdue, Jr., majored in elementary education at Elon College and now teaches in the fourth grade in the Orange County School System of Virginia. At Elon she was a member of Alpha Chi, the national honor society, and served as its president. She was also named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, was a member of Phi Kappa Tau sorority and served as a major-ette for the Elon College Marching Band. She also served as a member of the Homecoming Court in 1970.

A native of Roanoke, Mrs. Short is married to Thomas E. Short, Jr., also a 1970 graduate of Elon. Mrs. Short is one of two young alumni trustees that serve alternating two year terms on the Board of Trustees.

competitive with the public institutions," answered Dr. Daniele. "This is really the only guarantee we have of being competitive in recruiting and retaining the services of high quality faculty. This can only be done if the necessary funds are available."

In discussing other areas of higher education, Dr. Daniele said that students and faculty who seek a voice in the governing of institutions should recognize the authority and the responsibility of each other group in the institution.

Four New Faculty Appointments

Four new faculty members have been appointed to teaching positions for this year at Elon College according to an announcement from College President Dr. J. E. Daniele.

Charles Ned Harward, a native of Raleigh, has been named assistant professor of mathematics and physics. He attended Elon College and received his bachelors and masters degrees from North Carolina State University. He is a doctoral candidate at N. C. State having completed all required course work.

Since 1965, Harward has been doing graduate research at N. C. State while holding down a position there as a teaching assistant. He is married to the former Martha Davis and they have a son, Charles, Jr.

Named assistant professor of business administration was Francis Douglas Clouse, a native of Columbus, Ohio. Clouse has been employed as an accountant in Greensboro for the past three years.

Clouse received his bachelors and masters degrees from But-

"It seems unreasonable to me to expect any person or group to assume responsibility without commensurate authority," he said. "The important factor, it seems to me, is that all should know who is responsible and that all should be free to communicate with each other. I do not think that we should confuse the roles of those who participate. It will not help the institutions to have the students take over the role of teaching or the faculty take over the role of administration. Each group should understand its proper role and respect the role of the other groups."

ler University and has done additional graduate work at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. He is a Certified Public Accountant and is married.

Georgia Carole Troxler has been appointed part-time assistant professor of history. A native of LaGrange, Ga., she and her husband, Dr. George Troxler, associate professor of history at Elon, now live near Gibsonville.

Mrs. Troxler received her bachelors degree from the University of Georgia, magna cum laude and her masters from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where she is presently a candidate for her doctorate. She has previously been an instructor in history at Davidson County Community College.

Appointed part-time assistant professor of chemistry was James Ronald Hass. He received his bachelors degree from Appalachian State University and is a candidate for his doctorate at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in August.

HARWARD CLOUSE TROXLER HASS

In regard to curriculum changes, the Elon president states that there are good reasons for change and that needs of the student are paramount in the planning of a curriculum or in changing it.

"Some institutions have responded to the need of curriculum changes within the recent past," he said. "At Elon we have just completed a significant study of graduation requirements and curricular offerings. Those institutions which have not done so probably should take a serious look at their curriculum offerings."

"The difficulty in considering student desires in planning the curriculum is that there may be a great difference between what the student needs and what he feels he should have," he added. "We also have the problem of trying to distinguish between what a student needs and what the faculty wishes to have him study. These problems make curricular study and planning highly interesting and rewarding."

"When we talk of the future of programed instruction or machine-centered teaching, I believe that these methods will continue to be important. Each of these new devices seems to be overrated at the time, but as we gain experience, make evaluations and discover how to use them, most of them are useful in a limited way. There is, however, no substitute for the teacher," Dr. Daniele emphasized.

In discussing student and faculty dissent, Dr. Daniele believes that students and faculty should be guaranteed the right to dissent. "Every person on the campus should have the right to express himself openly and freely," he said. "However, no person has the right to interrupt the educational processes, work schedules or public programs. Such interruptions should not be tolerated."

"The administration has a tremendous responsibility to protect the teacher in the classroom from undue influence from anyone," Dr. Daniele continued. "Our responsibility is to see to it that the teacher is a competent scholar and then to give him the freedom to see the truth and to teach it as he understands it. This means that the teacher has an almost sacred responsibility to avoid the misuse of this important freedom."

The opinion that today's college students are wild is a pet peeve of the college president. "Very few of today's students deserve the bad press that most of them have gotten. A few students make wild noises and suddenly all students get a bad reputation. Most of today's students are fine young men and women, and they deserve much credit."

"However, those who disrupt the life of the campus should, I believe, be denied the right to continue on the campus. And further, disruptions should be handled in a way that does not encourage a violator of such laws," he added.

In conclusion, Dr. Daniele stated that he was strongly opposed to the practice of institutions taking positions on matters of public policy, such as policies regarding war and poverty. "I believe that each individual in the institution should be free to speak for himself, but that no one should be able to commit the institution to a position on issues of public policy."

Dr. Daniele is very positive in his views on the future of the private college in the overall higher education picture. He sees the need, he knows the way and he is working earnestly to see that Elon College meets that need—the need to provide a quality education for any student who wishes to attend Elon College.

ELON TOPS LENOIR RHYNE TO WIN CC CROWN

MIKE LAWTON, HONORABLE MENTION ALL-AMERICAN, DIVES ACROSS THE GOAL LINE FOR AN ELON TOUCHDOWN

The Elon College Fighting Christians won their second Carolinas Conference title in three years on November 13 when they defeated the Bears of LeNoir Rhyne College by a score of 14-10. The victory was the eighth of the year for the Maroon and Gold forces and the fifth against five conference foes.

Although the Christians have never been ranked among the top 20 teams in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the team has posted victories over three teams that the NAIA had ranked this year.

In the initial game of the season, the Christians defeated Wake Forest, ranked 5th in the nation, 7-6. Later in the season they defeated nationally ranked Presbyterian 19-7, and Newberry 24-14.

One of the two losses of the season vaulted another opponent into a nationally ranked position. Prior to meeting Elon, Carson-Newman College had not been ranked by the NAIA, but after winning over the Christians, they were rated among the top twenty.

A number of records, both college and conference, have been broken during the season. Freshman defensive back Brent Sexton broke records for most interceptions in a single game and in a season and senior kicker Grover Helsley captured all the conference and school records for field goals.

Juniior halfback Mike Lawton set two school rushing records for most rushes and most yards rushing for the season that had been held by former Elon great Bob Stauffenburg since 1956.

The Fighting Christians dropped their final game of the season 14-10 to the Mountaineers of Appalachian State University November 20 and finished up the season with an 8-3 record.

Seven of Coach Red Wilson's forces were named to the Greensboro Daily News All-Carolinas Conference team and two were honorable mentions in the AP Little All-American Poll. Coach Wilson was named the conference's Coach of the Year. Halfback Mike Lawton, voted the player of the year in the conference in 1971, led the players named to the elite conference squad. Lawton, guard Eddie Tyngsinger, kicker Grover Helsley and specialist Jim Beckett were named to the offensive team. On the all-star defensive team were linebacker Sam Key, tackle Nick Angelson and defensive back Brent Sexton.

Key and Lawton were named to the Daily News All-State team while Helsley and Sexton received honorable mention. Key and Lawton were also on the Associated Press Little All-American honorable mention list.

Coach Red Wilson was named the Carolinas Conference Coach of the Year by his fellow league head mentors.

New Trustees Named

COOPER

The announcement came from Dr. J. E. Dancley, president of the College, naming as new members of the 38-member board Walter L. Cooper and J. Harold Smith of Burlington and Sherrill Gray Hall of Greensboro.

A native of Greensboro, Walter Cooper is president and director of Community Federal Savings and Loan Association in Burlington. After graduating from the Burlington City School system, he entered Elon College. During World War II, he served with the Air Force and with the British Army Field Intelligence School in Karachi, Pakistan.

Another Burlington resident named to the Board of Trustees, J. Harold Smith, is president and a director of Liberty Hosiery Mills in Gibsonville and the Alamance Brocade Company in Burlington.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he has served as an officer of the Alumni Association, Smith holds a masters degree in business administration from the Harvard Graduate School of Business. He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of Greensboro College.

Smith was one of the founders of Liberty Hosiery Mills in 1938 and has served as president since that time with a break during World War II when he served with the Quartermaster Corps. He has been a member of the Burlington Rotary Club for a number of years.

Elon's new trustee lives at 1307 West Gay Street in Burlington with his wife, Peggy, and their two sons.

Sherrill Gray Hall, a graduate of Elon College with the Class of 1955, has been associated with the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company since 1959 when he was discharged from the Army. Second Alumni Tour Termed "Unforgettable"

By C. FLETCHER MOORE

The 1971 Elon College Alumni Tour Group left the Strand Palace Hotel in London late in the morning of Monday, August 9, to await its private bus (or "coach," as the British would have it) for Heathrow Airport to return via 747 jet to New York. The tour ended officially about 7 o'clock that evening when the 747 landed at Kennedy Airport and tour members, after going through customs, said their good-byes to each other.

This was the end of a happy and successful two weeks which began on Monday, July 26, when at 4 P.M. tour members leaving from Greensboro jetted to Newark, then took a helicopter to Kennedy and an airport bus to the reception area of Air France, to meet there those members coming in from other parts of the country.

The only complaint about Paris was that it had so much to offer the visitor that finding time to sleep was difficult. Historic landmarks, churches, the Louvre, the Eiffel Tower, Champs Elysees, boat rides on the Seine, Montmartre, sidewalk cafes, night life, and, of course, shopping - all conspired against one's getting much rest. It was probably a good thing, therefore, that when the plane to Amsterdam landed in late afternoon a few days later that city was enveloped in fog, and it was decided to postpone until the next night a ride on the illuminated canals and thus give everyone a free evening either to remain at the hotel or roam the city at will.

After a day on our own, our afternoon take-off for Copenhagen was delayed, so telephone calls had to be made to the hotel there advising them of our late arrival, but we were dined pleasantly by KLM at the Amsterdam airport in the interim. After finally checking in at the Copenhagen hotel most of the group walked the few blocks to the famed Tivoli Gardens and munched Danish sausages and hot dogs while watching the spectacular fireworks display at midnight. On later days there were such events as a tour of the harbor (which must be one of the most beautiful in the world), visits to architectural and historical mon-

Team Of 1921 Guests At Homecoming

Homecoming '71 was as big a success as everyone had hoped it would be. The weekend provided beautiful weather, a win over the defending Carolina Conference football champions, an occasion to honor the football team of 1921, the usual parade and crowning of the Homecoming Queen and a chance for old friends to renew acquaintances.

The highlight of the weekend was the honoring of the members of the 1921 football team. Ten members of that team and their sponsor, Mrs. Margaret Corbitt Todd were present for the Homecoming festivities. They rode in special cars in the parade through downtown Burlington, were recognized several times during the football game with Presbyterian and were honored at a reception in the Student Center following the game.

Those team members who were

present for Homecoming included Hal Clark, E. "Foots" Fesmire, O. B. "Country" Gorman, W. E. Graham, E. S. "Johnny" Johnson, Mark McAdams, G. S. Underwood, C. L. Walker, J. C. Whitesell and Wade Marlette.

Another thrilling part of the weekend was the 1921 win by the 1971 Fighting Christians over Presbyterian College. This victory proved to be an important stepping stone on the road that led the team to the Carolina Conference crown later in the season as Elon posted five wins with no defeats against conference opposition.

Miss Jane Kiger was crowned the Homecoming Queen during halftime ceremonies at the game by SGA President Dean McHrayner. Another Homecoming tradition was started when Grayson was presented a Bulova watch by Wade's Jewelers of Gibsonville.

ELON WINS CLASSIC

Coach Bill Miller's defending Carolina Conference champion Fighting Christians started the 1971-72 season off on the right foot as they captured the Burlington Civitan Turkey Classic championship and won their first two games of the year.

NAAI All-America candidate Tommy Cole led the Christians through the tourney, averaging 25.5 points a game, and was named the Most Valuable Player in the affair. Elon took a 92-51 win over UNC-G in the first game of the tourney and won the championship game 76-64 over Lenoir Rhyne, making 40 of 50 free throws in the title game.

ALUMNI TOUR

uments, a journey through the Danish Riviera to Elsinore and Kronberg Castle (the setting for Shakespeare's Hamlet), and rides through Danish farmlands. Some of the group took one full day to ferry to Sweden, have a lunch of real Swedish smorgasbord at the principal hotel in Malmo, visit a medieval cathedral and castle, and enjoy the panorama of rolling farmlands.

Bergen was the next port of call, and some tour members thought this the most interesting of all the places visited. Far to the north, where in August there is little more than three hours of darkness at night, it is the gateway to the Norwegian fjords, and a full day of sailing through the fjords was a highlight of the trip. The wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rudd fell on one day the group was in Bergen, so they invited everyone to a gala dinner to help them celebrate the event.

From Bergen, a brief stop in Oslo, and then to London. There were all the familiar things to see in the city, plus trips to Oxford, Stratford-on-Avon, and Winston Churchill's burial place.

One young lady with the group has written that "It's two weeks I'll never forget." I have no doubt that that goes for every one of us. A more congenial group of travelers cannot be imagined, and when you add hotels of almost uniformly excellent quality, centrally located in the heart of each city, and unbelievably good food everywhere, with interesting itineraries and comfortable travel arrangements, what more can be asked? -- It was indeed an unforgettable two weeks.

The Office of Admissions is very interested in contacting prospective students through alumni and friends. If you know of any students (friends, relatives etc.) who you feel may be interested in attending Elon, we would like to hear from you. We are primarily interested in contacting high school seniors and junior college graduates.

ELON COLLEGE, NORTH CAROLINA

VOL. 31 MARCH, 1972, NO 1

Founders Day Observed

The featured speaker for this year's Founders Day Convocation is Jules Bergman, ABC News Science Editor. The original date for the convocation was rescheduled for March 24 when it became impossible for the speaker to appear on March 10.

Bergman has covered every U.S. manned space shot, witnessed every major rocket launching the U.S. has ever conducted, and has reported every major scientific event of the past decade from nuclear weapons tests to new breakthroughs in surgery. As the first television correspondent ever to cover science on a fulltime basis, Bergman has unique methods of working; his intimate knowledge of things scientific comes not only from knowing the field and the people involved, but from actual personal experience. In the pursuit of his varied assignments, Bergman has flown a jet fighter at 1650 miles per hour, undergone NASA's actual qualifications tests for astronauts, and dove 4,000 feet beneath the sea in deep - diving research submarines.

Bergman's credits are as impressive and varied as the field he covers. He has obtained exclusive interviews with the Soviet Cosmonauts Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov. He had the leading role in "60 hours to the Moon," ABC News' highly praised documentary featuring John Glenn, Alan Shepard, and America's leading space scientists and physicians. Regularly heard on the ABC Radio network, Bergman is also a frequent contributor to ABC-TV's Eyewitness News. He is the reporter on ABC's Sunday afternoon "Issues and Answers" whenever the guest is from the world of science. His program, "Heart Attack Detection" shown as part of the

JULES BERGMAN
ABC NEWS SCIENCE EDITOR

"Editor's Choice" series, was acclaimed widely in medical circles and repeated after many requests.

Educated at both the University of Indiana and Columbia University, Bergman completed a Sloan-Rockefeller Advanced Science Writing Fellowship at the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism in 1960. While on the Sloan-Rockefeller Fellowship, he visited and studied at major U.S. research centers in aviation, rocketry, medicine and oceanography. He also worked with surgeons at Columbia's School of Physicians and Surgeons and studied astronomy and rocket propulsion. Armed with this vast background of scientific and technological knowledge, Bergman is in a unique position to comment on the space age wonders of both today and tomorrow, and to assess the effect they may have on tomorrow's world.

THIRD ANNUAL ALUMNI TOUR ANNOUNCED

"South of the Border" will be the theme of the third annual Elon College Alumni Tour that will depart from Atlanta on June 22 for two fun-filled weeks in Mexico.

Announcement of plans for the tour was made recently by Director of Alumni Relations P.W. Benton who also said that persons on the tour can enroll in a course in Mexican history.

The tour will include at least four full days in Mexico City, trips to Veracruz, Spa Penafiel, Tasco, and two days and three nights in Acapulco. Members of the tour will visit historic and educational points of interest, dine in some of Mexico's finest restaurants and shop many of the quaint stalls along narrow Mexican streets.

The first stop after the jet flight from Atlanta will be Mexico City. There tour members will get the complete orientation tour, enjoy picturesque native dances, visit the Floating Gardens of Xochimilco, the University of Mexico, shrine of Guadalupe, ruins of the Aztec Market of Tlatelco, pyramids of Teotihuacan and many private homes and gardens.

A side trip to La Morena will include a flamenco show and a chance for tour members to light their own bull. On trips to Veracruz the tour will motor through banana and coffee plantations before a day of leisure at one of Mexico's most interesting hacienda hotels, Spa Penafiel.

From there the tour will visit the summer palace of Cortez on the way to Taxco, the silver capital of the world. After another day of leisure in Taxco, the tour will proceed to Acapulco where alumni tour members will see the famous LaQuebrada Divers, take a sightseeing cruise on Acapulco Bay and then see the death-defying "Aztec Flyers" performance. After another free day in the South Pacific city, the tour will return to Atlanta.

The third annual Alumni Tour will be led this year by Dr. Durward Stokes, chairman of the department of social science at Elon.

"This is the first year that members of the tour group can receive college credit in a subject related to the area being visited," said Benton. "We are fortunate that we have a person with the background of Mexican history that Dr. Stokes possesses who can lead the tour and make it possible to offer a related course."

We should emphasize that the tour is not exclusively for alumni of Elon," Benton added. "The tour is sponsored by the Alumni Office, but anyone connected with the College in any way can join the tour, space permitting. Those who are interested may get additional information by contacting the Alumni Office."

TOURS HIGHLIGHT WINTER TEAM

Three groups of Elon students will this winter represent the Winter Term of 1972 better than any other because they traveled abroad to study in one of three areas: history, English or music.

A group of 51 students studied in England for four weeks under the supervision of Dr. James P. Elder and Dr. George Troxler in the fourth British history course.

With special travel arrangements made for the Elon group and other groups from Wake Forest University and Salem College, the history course was expanded to four weeks this year which also permitted more time for independent travel and study in other parts of Europe.

In other parts of Europe, led another group of Elonscholars to England for three weeks of study in English literature. The 20 students who accompanied him also visited the Republic of Ireland leaving Dublin just prior to the burning of the British Embassy there in January.

Traveling as Ambassadors of Good Will for the State of North Carolina, a title granted by Governor Bob Scott, Elon's jazz ensemble, the Emanons, made an international Goodwill Tour that included stops in Iceland, Luxembourg, Germany and France.

Professor Jack White and Dr. David Bragg led the musicians in concerts that were sponsored by the United States Embassy, the United States Army, Elon College and the Student Government Association. The 25 students on the tour reported that they were treated like royalty by their European hosts.

All three groups received numerous compliments on the behavior of the Elon College students wherever they stayed.

The overall enrollment of the Winter Term, the fourth since the 1-1-4 calendar was introduced at Elon, was up 3.3 percent over last year as enrollment reached 1390. This is an increase of 8.3 percent over the first Winter Term.

Elon College

"On The Air"

Concerts and travel talks, recitals and interviews - these make up the subject matter for Elon College's weekly radio program "Elon Presents." Tom WBBB-FM in Burlington airs the show every Thursday evening at 7:05 and WMEK in Chase City, Va. has scheduled the program for Sunday afternoons from 12:30 - 1:00.

ALAMANCE CHAPTER PAYS TRIBUTE TO ALUMNA

EDITOR'S NOTE - THE FOLLOWING IS THE SPEECH MADE BY DR. J. E. DANIELEY AT A RECENT ALAMANCE COUNTY ALUMNI CHAPTER MEETING WHICH HONORED MISS LILA NEWMAN, A RETIRED MEMBER OF THE ELON COLLEGE.

It is interesting to me to hear people talk about rating a college. Such talk inevitably brings up the question: what determines whether a college is good, average or mediocre? All of us would agree that an adequate physical plant is necessary, learning materials must be available in a library, and laboratories must have minimum equipment. Without meeting these requirements, you really don't have a college, but affluence in these areas does not guarantee quality.

I personally believe that the excellence of a college is ultimately determined by the quality of the character and the commitment of the faculty. To be sure, those who teach must have a minimum level of academic attainment themselves, but, again, they can have good credentials in this respect and still fail to be good teachers.

I am convinced that the fundamental difference between colleges is in the influence which the teacher has on the lives of the students. This is one of the reasons why I am so strongly committed to the relatively small institution and think that it has a role which cannot be filled by the very large ones, regardless of the resources they may have available to them.

When the teacher is a person of sterling character who not only likes people but who cares for them and is concerned about their welfare, their happiness, and their success; who is willing to suffer with them when they hurt and to rejoice with them when they win; whose aim is the development and growth of individuals as they seek to reach their potential, then you have the possibility of attaining excellence.

I have been intimately associated with Elon College for more than 30 years. During that time, and I have been told that the same thing was true in earlier days, there have been several faculty members of the type I have just described, and I know that their lives and labors have made a profound difference, not only in the life of this institution, but in the lives of those who have been privileged to study here.

Miss Lila Newman graduated at Elon College in 1911. Later she studied at Columbia University and Harvard University. After teaching in South Ga. for one year, she joined the faculty here in 1924, and continued to teach art until her retirement in 1963. During that time she influenced the lives of hundreds of students. Her lively sense of humor, her engaging smile, her warm friendship, her devotion to duty, her loyalty to Elon, and her great spirit are characteristic of this gracious and good lady. Her sense of the beautiful communicated through her skill as an artist and as a teacher has enriched the lives of those who have known and studied with her.

Grateful for the privilege of knowing her, appreciative of her long years of effective service as a member of this faculty, and mindful of her significant influence on the lives of countless students, I count it a high privilege to say on behalf of Elon College - its trustees, faculty, alumni, and friends - what I am sure all of you would want me to say: WE LOVE LILA.

ALUMNI EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS

The Executive Committee of the Elon College Alumni Association held its winter meeting February 8 on the campus with C. Carl Woods, Jr., president, presiding.

CHRISTIANS WIN CC TOURNAMENT

The Fighting Christian basketball team won their second consecutive Carolina Conference championship in the 1972 Carolina Conference Basketball Tournament that was staged on the Elon College campus March 2-4.

Led by All-American Tommy Cole, the Christians defeated High Point in the first round, Catawba in the semi-finals and the Guilford Quakers in the championship round. It was the third straight year that Guilford and Elon had met in the finals for the championship.

The championship win was the 225th victory at Elon for Coach Bill Miller and was win number 21 for the season against a total of only 8 losses.

Tommy Cole was picked by the sportswriters covering the tournament as the Most Valuable Player as he scored a total of 85 points in the three games and had 13 assists. This was the second straight year for Tommy to get the MVP award.

Larry Trautwein, who scored 37 points for the Fighting Christians and pulled down 24 rebounds, was named to the All-Tournament team along with Cole. Both players had previously been named to the All-Conference team for their outstanding performances during the regular season.

The tournament, held on the Elon campus for the first time in the 27-year history of the event, was well attended and covered extensively by the press. Terry Wills, assistant athletic director at Elon, was the tournament director and received much praise for the way the tournament was carried out.

In addition to the basketball games, a number of satellite events were held during tournament week that helped to publicize the event and entertain conference officials, coaches and players.

A banquet in McEwen Dining Hall on Wednesday evening kicked off the series of events which attended by all players and coaches participating in the tournament and a number of invited guests. The Burlington-Alamance County Chamber of Commerce had a reception for visiting guests on Thursday evening and a golf tournament and fashion show for the ladies highlighted Friday's activities.

ALUMNI FUND PROGRESS REPORTED

Three hundred sixty-six Elon Alumni, led by Co-chairmen of the Alumni Fund, E. Ben Stevenson of Virginia Beach, Va. and DeRoy Fonville of Burlington, have made contributions of $23, 735.98 to the College through January of this year. Those persons who have helped to achieve this figure thus far are, of course, Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Fonville, but just as important are the class agents for each graduating class. These people are to be commended for the many hours spent in sending out letters to the members of their classes. Future plans for this spring include a phonathon in which alumni will be calling their classmates on the telephone for the purpose of receiving a pledge to the Alumni Fund. These phonathons will be conducted in Burlington, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Charlotte, and Tidewater, Va. Everyone is encouraged to respond generously when fellow alumni calls.

Elon To Take Part In Curricular Reform Project

Elon College is one of 15 senior institutions of higher education that will participate this year in the Institute for Undergraduate Curricular Reform, the initial project of the State Board of Higher Education's Center for Continuing Renewal.

Dr. Robert W. Delp, professor of history at Elon College, will be the director of the curriculum study for Elon.

Dr. J. Lem Stokes II, Acting Director of the State Board of Higher Education, said the representatives will come from six public and nine private colleges and universities.

The public universities are North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University, North Carolina Central University, North Carolina School of the Arts, Pembroke State University, University of North Carolina at Asheville and University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The participating private institutions in addition to Elon, are Campbell College, Davidson College, Greensboro College, Johnson C. Smith University, Mars Hill College, North Carolina Wesleyan College, Salem College, and Shaw University.

Western Carolina University at Cullowhee will house the 1972 summer session of the Institute for Undergraduate Curricular Reform.

The purpose of the institute is to induce curricular revision to provide better service to students. Institute participants will examine each proposed revision to measure its chances of improving the quality among current offerings to students, increasing educational opportunity to more students and using economic resources more effectively.

The Institute, the first major project of the Center for the Continuing Renewal of Higher Education will serve teams of a dean and four faculty members from each participating institution.

The primary focus of the Institute will be the curricular problems of the various campuses. Its staff will be widely-known leaders in finding successful answers to educational problems.

Dr. John Satterfield, director of the Center for Continuing Renewal and of the Institute, said, "The institutions selected are highly representative. They include small and large, public and private, predominantly white and predominantly black, coeducational and single-sex campuses. The diversity of institutions will offer the deans and professors an opportunity to see a cross section of higher education in North Carolina."

"The larger view than is usually available on an individual campus can cause both individual and institutional aspirations to be seen in the context of the needs of the State."

"We are highly pleased that Elon College has been selected to participate in the Institute for Undergraduate Curricular Reform," said Elon President Dr. J. E. Danieley in connection with the announcement. "Curricular reform is one of the most pressing issues in higher education because of the importance of providing higher quality educational experiences for our students and the necessity of effecting economies of time and resources in the educational process."

"At Elon we have engaged in curriculum study almost continuously. Last year we completed an institution-wide study involving faculty and students. The study resulted in the addition of 34 courses and the deletion of 87 courses. Coupled with changes which were made in graduation requirements we are now able to offer our students an improved program of study and increased flexibility in planning their course of study."

"Throughout the proposed study in the Institute," he continued, "the emphasis will be on the aims and objectives of each individual institution and the programs which are vital in meeting those aims and objectives. There will be no attempt toward uniformity of offerings but the rich diversity of offerings which are available because of institutional differences will be stressed."

"There will be a Presidential Commission on Curricular Reform on each campus which will include 12 faculty members and 6 students. A faculty member of the Commission will serve as a full-time expeditor for the study on the individual campus," Dr. Danieley concluded.

"Our faculty is composed of educators who have received their undergraduate degrees from a great number and variety of institutions," said Dr. Dancley. "The fact that a significant percentage of our faculty are Elon alumni indicates a high degree of interest and loyalty on the part of our graduates. The forty universities from which our faculty members hold graduate degrees include some of the most outstanding institutions in the world," continued the president. VOL. 31 - JUNE 1972 - NO. 3

Alumni Day Attracts Over 300

"And a good time was had by all!"

That statement would just about sum up the feelings of more than 300 alumni who converged on the Elon campus during the weekend of May 20-21 for Alumni Day and Commencement activities.

For the members of the classes of 1922 and 1947, Alumni Day perhaps meant even more since the members of these classes were having their 50th and 25th anniversary class reunions.

Other classes that were holding reunions - the classes of 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, 1952, 1957, 1962, and 1967 - were renewing old acquaintances as well. And during the same day, the members of the about-to-be-graduated Class of 1972 became official members of the Alumni Association.

Activities started on Saturday with a reunion breakfast for the Silver and Golden Anniversary classes and members of the Golden Anniversary Club. Approximately 100 members of these groups had breakfast together in the Harden Cafeteria.

During the morning hours, alumni gathered at the William S. Long Student Center to register for the weekend and chat with one another during a coffee hour. And at 12:30, everyone, with the exception of the Class of 1922 who lunched together at Huey's Barbeque, attended the Alumni Luncheon in Harden Cafeteria.

Ongoing Alumni President C. Carl Woods presided over the luncheon and introduced P. W. Benton, director of alumni relations; C. A. Hutcherson, director of development; and Dr. J. E. Danieley, president of the College, for brief reports on the activities of their offices during the past year.

RETURNING ALUMNI enjoyed the chance to renew old acquaintances at such functions as the Alumni Luncheon (shown above).

Dr. Danieley, in his brief remarks, welcomed the alumni back to their Alma Mater and announced that the long-awaited renovation of Whitley Auditorium, made possible by funds raised through the E-4 Fund, would begin on Monday following Alumni Day.

The new officers of the Alumni Association were also introduced at the luncheon. Mrs. Irene Hook Covington was presented as the new president and other officers included DeRoy Fonville, Jr., first vice-president; and Frank I. Steele, Jr., second vice-president. Over 125 alumni attended the luncheon.

After an afternoon of free time for chatting with old friends, classmates and professors, alumni and other guests on the campus for the weekend were treated to a program of music in Whitley Auditorium. A number of selections were sung by the members of the College Choir, under the direction of Professor Richard Apperson, and a quartet as well as several solos by collegiate musicians.

Alumni and friends of Miss Marjorie Hunter gathered in the Parlor of West Dormitory at 5:30 p.m. for a reception honoring Miss Hunter, the recipient of the Outstanding Alumnus Award for 1972. Then everyone gathered at

Renovation Of Whitley Begins

Renovation of Whitley Auditorium has begun. Plans of the renovation were first made public by Dr. Danieley at the Alumni Luncheon on Saturday during Commencement weekend, and on the following Monday workmen were busy removing pews from the auditorium.

The renovation was one of the proposed improvements provided for in the E-4 Fund campaign. The building was one of five buildings constructed on the campus after the fire of 1923. Since its initial construction, no major improvements have been made in the structure.

Renovation plans call for the complete re-wiring of all electrical and sound amplification circuits. This work which has already begun will provide adequate electrical power for proper lighting of the auditorium, stage area, music studios and faculty offices as well as an excellent public address system.

Cracked plaster in the auditorium will be replaced and the inside of the building will be completely repainted.

Seating in the auditorium will be in the form of theater-type, individual, padded seats on the main level and in the balcony. The floor will be tiled and carpet runners will be provided for the aisles.

"Although it has been years since Whitley could provide seats for the entire student body of Elon," said Dr. Danieley in announcing the renovation, "the facility is very important as a place for assemblies, meetings, concerts and other cultural events sponsored by the College. We owe a debt of gratitude to those who made the building possible in the 20's and again to those who have made this renovation possible through gifts to the E-4 Fund."

THE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY CLUB got together for this picture. Members of this club are graduates who have passed their 50th reunion anniversary year.

Record Number Receive Degrees

A record number of Elon College graduates received their degrees on Sunday, May 21 during Elon's 82nd Spring Commencement Exercises as three leaders in the fields of government service, the textile industry and the church were awarded honorary doctorate degrees.

A total of 283 seniors were awarded their Bachelor's degrees, seven of whom received the Bachelor of Science degree. The remainder were Bachelor of Arts degrees.

The associate in arts degree in secretarial science was awarded for the first time in the history of the College during the graduation activities. Six women students were awarded the degrees by Dr. J. E. Danieley, president of the College.

Eighteen of those students receiving their degrees did so with honors. One student graduated Summa Cum Laude and two were Magna Cum Laude.

Honorary degrees were bestowed upon Rev. Melvin Dollar, a member of the Class of 1939 who was recognized for his outstanding work in church extension in North Carolina, Virginia, Florida and California for the United Church of Christ; Don S. Holt, a native of Alamance County and president of the board of directors of the board of Cannon Mills; and Congressman L. Richardson Preyer of the Sixth District of North Carolina, who was also the Commencement Speaker.

The Baccalaureate Sermon was delivered on Sunday morning in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium by the Rev. John Yenches, pastor of the Church by the Sea, Bal Harbour, Florida. Rev. Yenches has been pastor of the church, which he founded, for over 25 years. He has a daughter presently attending Elon.

The graduation ceremonies, also held in the gym, followed a luncheon for the graduating seniors, their families and friends. The honorary degree recipients, members of the Board of Trustees and the speakers were the guests of Dr. Danieley for lunch in McEwen Dining Hall.

During the graduation ceremonies, the candidates for degrees were presented by Dr. Theo Strum, dean of instruction, to Dr. Danieley, who presented the degrees. The hoods were presented to the graduates by Dean W. Jennings Berry, the Faculty Marshal, assisted by SGA President Jim Denton, the Chief Student Marshal, Dean June Looney presented each graduate with a Bible.

During the graduation ceremonies, Dr. Danieley also presented two awards. Mary Mildred Sexton, a junior music major from Edenton, received the W. L. Monroe Christian Education and personality Award for woman students and the Ella Erunk Smith Award for having made the greatest contribution to the moral and religious life of the campus.

Co-recipients were announced for the men's Monroe Award. They were presented to Eddie Tysinger of Asheboro and David Newsome of Winston-Salem.

Both awards are in the form of cash prizes.

Campus Buildings Named To Honor College Trustee, Retiring Professors

The library building on the Elon campus was dedicated and named and New Dorm was renamed during commencement weekend.

On Saturday afternoon, the library was dedicated by Dr. J. E. Danieley and named the Iris Holt McEwen Library in honor of a member of the Elon College Board of Trustees and on Sunday afternoon New Dorm was renamed Sloan Dormitory in honor of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Sloan.

Dr. McEwen, a longtime friend of the College and a native of Alamance County, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and a member of the First Christian Church of Burlington. A leader in civic affairs in Alamance County, the former school teacher has served in many capacities and in 1962 was named Alamance County Woman of the Year.

"For more than twenty years Dr. Iris Holt McEwen has served with distinction as a member of the Board of Trustees of Elon College," said Dr. Danieley. "She has actively supported every program and project for the development of the College. In recognition of her devotion to Elon and her invaluable service to the Institution, the College is honored to dedicate the library in her honor."

The McEwen Dining Hall, located just north of the library, is named in honor of Dr. McEwen's late husband, James H. McEwen.

Dr. and Mrs. Sloan retired from the Elon faculty this spring after 25 years of service to continue their teaching in Africa.

In dedicating the building and renaming it the Sloan Dormitory, Dr. Danieley said that the facility was being renamed to "recognize the invaluable services of (these) two members of our faculty...and to express our appreciation for their many contributions to Elon College including significant assistance in making possible the construction of this dormitory."

The library building was completed in 1968 and Sloan Dorm was built in 1961.

Both are located on the west side of the main campus.

FOLLOWING THE SERVICE to rename New Dorm, Dr. Danieley chatted with Dr. and Mrs. Sloan on the steps of the newly named Sloan Dormitory.

Sports Hall of Fame Established

The Elon College Sports Hall of Fame will induct its initial members at Homecoming this fall during ceremonies in the newly renovated Whitley Auditorium on Saturday morning, October 21.

Dr. J. E. Danieley, President of the College, has announced that the Sports Hall of Fame is being established to recognize Elon College athletes who achieved outstanding records as student athletes.

A committee of alumni, faculty and friends of Elon College has been named by the Elon president and has been charged with the responsibility of naming inductees to the Sports Hall of Fame.

The first group of inductees will include those who achieved outstanding records in football. Another group of winter and spring sport guests will be named in February.

"A large number of outstanding athletes have participated at Elon College," said Dr. Danieley in making the announcement, "but many have never received the recognition that they deserved. The Sports Hall of Fame will recognize the 'cream of the crop' and will serve as lasting recognition for those inducted."

In order to minimize pressure that might be exerted on those responsible for making the selections, the Sports Hall of Fame committee members will remain anonymous and their decisions on inductees will be reported to the President for announcement at appropriate times during the academic year. Guidelines and criteria for admission to the honor group will also be set by the committee and will be made public.

Names of the honorees will be engraved on a permanent plaque to be placed in the Chester Huey Room in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on the campus.

Alumni Efforts Win Recognition

The Alumni Relations Office of Elon College has been recognized by the American Alumni Council for distinguished achievement in alumni support for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Elon's alumni program of annual giving was among 253 programs selected to enter the final round of judging for the 1972 U. S. Steel Alumni Giving Incentive Awards. The award is especially significant since annual giving programs from over 1500 colleges were included in the total judging.

Tyrone Rowell, director of alumni relations at Elon, said that the criteria for judging includes increases in amounts of money, increases in percentage of alumni participating in the annual giving program and total percentage of alumni participation.

Charles A. Hutcheson, director of development at Elon, noted that this was the first such American Alumni Council award ever won by Elon's alumni annual giving program. "We are proud of the award," Hutcheson added, "but it would not have been possible without the fine support we receive from our individual alumni."

Cannon Mills Contribution Earmarked For Carlton

Cannon Mills officials recently presented Elon College with an unrestricted gift of $25,000.

Representing Cannon Mills President Don Holt, Myron Rhyme, mayor of Graham and vice president of Cannon Mills in charge of Decorative Fabric Division, presented the check to Dr. J. E. Danieley, president of Elon College.

"We are deeply grateful to Cannon Mills for this significant gift," said Dr. Danieley in accepting the gift for the College. "The leaders of this company are to be commended for their concern for education and their high level of corporate citizenship."

The Elon president stated that the College has been involved in a long-range program to build new facilities and to renovate older buildings. "This program is now complete with the exception of Whitley Auditorium, which is being renovated this summer, and the Carlton Building, which will be renovated as soon as funds are available," Dr. Danieley explained.

"This substantial gift will be used to help renovate the Carlton Building and will encourage others to contribute the necessary funds to complete the program. Our sincere thanks go to President Holt, Mayor Rhyme and their associates for this important contribution."

Football Season Opens In Alabama

The Fighting Christians will be carrying the Maroon and Gold banner of Elon College into the deep south as they open the 1972 football season on Thursday night, September 7 against the Red Wave of Troy State University in Montgomery, Alabama.

The contest will match the two teams for the first time ever and provides the deepest penetration in the south by an Elon athletic team in a number of years.

The Maroon and Gold forces return to friendly soil on the following week to host the gridiron forces of North Carolina Central University before taking to the road again for a three-week stretch against Guilford, Shepherd and Presbyterian Colleges.

Coach Red Wilson's charges will then entrench themselves on home soil for the following five weeks as they do battle against the invading forces of Carson-Newman, Catawba (before homecoming throngs), Wofford, Newberry and Lenoir-Rhyne. The Christians will then travel to Gardner-Webb for the final regular season contest.

Season tickets are still available by writing the athletic director at the College.

Enrollment Picture For Fall Is Bright

College officials are expecting another full enrollment for the fall semester. Director of admissions Stanley Boone reported in June that his office had stopped processing applications from prospective students who wished to enroll as dormitory students and that a waiting list had been started. In July, the admissions office began referring applicants to other colleges.

Last fall Elon's enrollment for the fall totaled 1862 students. This year 1100 are expected to enroll as dormitory students and an additional 700 or more are expected as commuter or evening school students.

"We will be accepting qualified commuter students right up through registration," explained Boone. "We can only accept as many dormitory students as we have space, but we almost always have space for commuting students who can meet the admissions requirements."

Enrollment figures for the fall semester will be compiled by the registrar's office after registration for classes has been completed.

Dr. J. L. Crompton, chairman of the development committee of the College's Board of Trustees, and Dr. Ed Powell, chairman of the development council, report on E* Campaign completion.

E⁴ Fund Successfully Completed

The efforts of hundreds of contributors, scores of volunteer workers and officials of Elon College were rewarded on June 30, when it was announced that a $3 million capital funds campaign initiated by the College in the spring of 1968 had been successfully completed.

Dr. J. L. Crompton, chairman of the development committee of the College's board of trustees which spearheaded a drive to complete the campaign by July 1, reported that the $3 million goal had been reached. Over 150 contributors, volunteer workers and members of the faculty and staff were present for the victory luncheon in McEwen Dining Hall.

Dr. Crompton explained that at the spring meeting of the board, it was decided that the campaign would be completed by July 1 and that he had been charged with the responsibility of naming a special committee to spearhead the drive.

"It has been my pleasure to work with the chairman of this special committee, Dr. Ramsey Cammack, and Dr. Ed Powell, Allen Gant and Reid Maynard in attempting to serve Elon College, its students and this community," said Dr. Crompton. "The value of the College cannot be overstated. We are indeed fortunate to have the influence of a high quality, Christian institution like Elon College in Alamance County.

"On this significant occasion in the life of Elon College, I am happy to announce that we successfully completed our task. The grand total of pledges and funds received was $3,010,816," announced Dr. Crompton.

Following the announcement, Dr. J. E. Danieley, president of Elon College, who presided over the meeting, expressed the gratitude of the College family and his own personal gratitude that the campaign had been successfully completed on the eve of the beginning of his sixteenth year as president of Elon College.

Homecoming To Be On-Campus Affair

Homecoming '72 will be on campus this year except for the football game which will be held in Burlington Memorial Stadium.

Alumni returning to the campus on October 21 will find concerts on the lawn, an alumni picnic luncheon and the announcement of Elon College's Football Hall of Fame members as some of the highlights of this year's homecoming activities.

The parade will not be scheduled for this year in order to give visiting alumni and friends more opportunity to visit the campus. The marching bands who normally participate in the parade will be performing "under the oaks" during the morning hours.

The newly renovated Whitley Auditorium will be used to announce the first members of Elon's Football Hall of Fame. A post-game reception in Harper Center will be held in their honor.

Other homecoming activities include the morning reception and registration in Long Student Center and a buffet dinner in Harden Cafeteria. The homecoming game will find the Christians playing the Catawba Indians at 2:15 p.m. in Burlington Memorial Stadium.

Reservations are required for both the picnic luncheon and the post-game buffet.

Dr. & Mrs. Sloan Leave For Africa

Retired professors Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Sloan have embarked on a new adventure in the form of a two-year assignment with the Africa Literature Centre and the United Church of Zambia's Theological Seminary.

The seminary and the centre are located in Kitwe, Zambia, formerly known as Northern Rhodesia. The area, with its copper industry, has one of the highest economic standards in Africa and urban Kitwe has a population of approximately 100,000.

"Authors in Residence" is the title the Sloans will hold as centre faculty members. The centre is part of an international center of learning, financially supported by churches throughout the world but operated and governed by Africans.

The couple will be teaching journalism in a training program for newspapers and magazine writers and editors, novelists, poets and radio and television writers.

The College annual "Phi-Psi-Cli" was dedicated to them this year. Also, the Elon College trustees named one of the women's dormitories in their honor and the College faculty honored them with a commencement day dinner.

Moe Cougar Coach

Doug Moe, an All-America basketball player at the University of North Carolina in 1961 and a graduate of Elon College in the class of 1965, was named assistant coach and director of player personnel for the Carolina Cougars on July 20.

Moe led the Tar Heel teams to a combined 57-15 record during his three varsity seasons at Carolina. He transferred to Elon in the fall of 1963 and was graduated in August of 1965 with the Bachelor of Arts degree.

While a student at Elon, Moe served as assistant coach to Elon's Bill Miller. The Fighting Christians, led by Ali-American Jesse Branson, captured the Carolinas Conference basketball title over High Point during Moe's second season as assistant coach.

Following graduation, Moe played two seasons in Padua, Italy, where he averaged nearly 30 points per game. The next five years were spent playing for ABA teams in Virginia, Oakland and New Orleans. He was named to the league's all-star team three years and led his teams to playoff berths all five years.

President Announces Retirement

Dr. Danieley Plans Return To Classroom

Dr. J. Earl Danieley, president of Elon College since July 1, 1957, announced October 16 that he will retire from the office on June 30, upon the completion of sixteen years of service as president.

Dr. Danieley made the announcement at the Fall Meeting of the Board of Trustees and indicated his plans to return to full-time teaching duties on the faculty of the College.

In tendering his resignation to the Board, Dr. Danieley said that the College was in good condition at this time and that he wished to return to his teaching profession while he was still healthy and still had the necessary vigor and enthusiasm to study to prepare to do a good job.

"The College is in good condition," stated the President. "The E4 Fund Campaign has been successfully completed, the self-study report is in and should be approved in December; the building program is essentially finished; renovation of older buildings will be completed in the summer of 1973; the enrollment is good and prospects continue to be good; the faculty substantially meets accreditation requirements; and the reputation of the College is good and improving."

"It is difficult to determine precisely when a person should retire," the President continued, "but the situation seems right from a personal standpoint also. I am 48 years old and in reasonably good health; I am a committed teacher and wish to return to teaching; I have the necessary vigor and enthusiasm to study to prepare to do a good job; and I strongly desire more free time for study, writing, hobbies and my family."

A native of Alamance County, President Danieley graduated at Elon in May 1946 and was named Instructor of Chemistry later that year. He received the M.A. degree in educational administration and the doctor's degree in organic chemistry at the University of North Carolina. He completed one year of postdoctoral research at the Johns Hopkins University.

In addition to his teaching at Elon, he served for three years as Dean of the College. He also taught as a lecturer and as a visiting professor in chemistry at the University of North Carolina.

He has been recognized by higher education in North Carolina by being elected to serve as president of the North Carolina College Conference, including all colleges and universities in the State; president for two terms of the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges; president of the Council of Church-Related Colleges of North Carolina; and secretary of the board of directors and president of the Piedmont University Center. He was named by Governor Terry Sanford and continues to serve as an advisory member of the Educational Facilities Commission of North Carolina.

Active in his church, he has held various positions in his local church, served on the Board of Directors of the Southern Conference of the United Church of Christ, and for four years was the first chairman of the national Council for Lay Life and Work of that denomination.

In the community he has served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Burlington-Alamance County Chamber of Commerce; president of the Community Council; campaign general and president of the Board for the United Fund of Alamance County; and president of the Burlington Rotary Club.

He holds the rank of Registered Parliamentarian with the National Association of Parliamentarians and has served as parliamentarian for the North Carolina Association of Colleges and Universities, the Southern Conference of the United Church of Christ, and for the last two sessions of the General Synod of that denomination.

He is married to the former Verona Daniels of Beaufort, North Carolina, a member of the class of 1949 at Elon. They have three children: Ned, who is a sophomore at Wake Forest University; Mark, a senior at Western Alamance High School; and Jane, an eighth grader at the Elon Middle School.

Board Of Trustees Accepts Resignation

The Board of Trustees of Elon College approved "with deep regret" the request of Dr. J. E. Danieley, president of the College for the past 16 years, that he be permitted to retire as President on June 30, and to return to full-time teaching duties at the College.

"Dr. Danieley has performed as president for 16 years in a magnificent and highly acceptable manner," said Board Chairman Thad Eure, "and for this reason the College has made more significant advancement than during any other period in its history, bringing the College to an enviable position among private institutions of higher learning."

"The Board is delighted that Dr. Danieley plans to return to full-time teaching duties on the faculty of the College," he added.

The Board also authorized Chairman Eure to name a selection committee to begin the process of screening potential candidates for the presidency. The committee will work with consultation committees from the faculty, student body, alumni and the churches in the selection process. The committee will be named as soon as practicable.

Two Scholarship Funds Established

An endowment fund has been established at Elon College in memory of the late Allen Erwin Gant that will provide funds for scholarships for deserving students from Alamance County. Mr. Gant served as president of the three major divisions of the Glen Raven family of textiles—the Glen Raven Cotton Mills, the Glen Raven Knitting Mills and the Glen Raven Silk Mills.

Dr. J. E. Danieley has announced that the scholarship fund was established with an initial gift of $25,000 by Mr. Gant's sisters, Miss Jessamine Gant and Miss Corinna Gant of Burlington.

Mr. Gant served as a member of the Elon College Board of Trustees from 1960 until his death and was a member of the Board's Executive Committee. During the E4 Fund Campaign, he served as chairman of the Advance Gifts Division and also helped with the final drive by members of the Board in the early summer months of this year to see that the campaign was completed by July 1, the date of Dr. Danieley's fifteenth anniversary as president of Elon.

College Financial Reports Are Encouraging

The Development Committee of the Board of Trustees received an optimistic report on the fund-raising efforts of the College's development office thus far this fiscal year. Dr. J. L. Crumpton of Durham, chairman of the Development Committee, reported in a summary of gifts received from June 1 through September 30, that a grand total of $217,445.21 had been given by 279 donors. This reflects an increase of 297 percent in dollars received over the same period last year and a 23 percent increase over the number of contributors during the same period.

"I can't tell you how pleased I am to report these excellent increases that reflect the approval by Elon's public of the very fine job that the College is doing," said Dr. Crumpton. "Some of the gifts have been in large denominations for capital and endowment funds. Continued support of this nature will insure a sound financial picture for the College and its programs."

Dr. Crumpton reported that the larger increases have come from alumni, parents, faculty and staff, Burlington area friends, and firms and foundations. Contributions to the College from all sources during the 1971-72 fiscal year totaled $490,536. Of this amount, approximately $275,600 came from members of the three Giving Clubs. Membership in the Giving Clubs is based on a participant's cumulative gifts during the fiscal year. Contributors of $700-$499 are eligible for membership in the Century Club; $500-$999 for the Oak Club; and $1,000 or more for the President's Club.

The full Board of Trustees heard another encouraging report on the financial condition of the College at the close of the 1971-72 fiscal year. The report stated that income in excess of expenditures for the year totaled $12,589.

After the Board of Trustees heard these encouraging reports Mr. C. A. Hutchinson, Director of Development, commented: "While we are greatly encouraged by the increased level of giving so far this fiscal year, we cannot relax our efforts on behalf of the College. A large proportion of gift income we have received in the first four months has been designated for reduction of debt on buildings already completed, for renovation of the Corbin building, and for endowment. We must still raise funds to pay salaries, to provide scholarship, to maintain buildings, and to keep the College operating day by day without a deficit. Gifts for current operations are only $18,000 ahead of last year."

"I am confident that our dedicated parents, alumni, and friends will continue to demonstrate their confidence in Elon College through increased support, but the Development Office staff and a host of volunteers must continue and redouble their fund-raising efforts."

Sports Hall Of Fame Members Inducted

Induction Ceremony In Newly Renovated Whitley Auditorium

Seven outstanding collegiate athletes, one of North Carolina's most successful coaches, and a man who has been associated with intercollegiate athletics for nearly six decades were honored during Homecoming festivities as they were inducted as the initial members of the Elon College Sports Hall of Fame.

Dr. Almonzo Lohr Hook, a man who has been involved in intercollegiate athletics in North Carolina, and especially at Elon, since he was graduate manager of the College's athletic teams in 1915, was the first inducted. He was followed by the late Douglas Clyde "Peahead" Walker, whose record as an Elon coach has been unsurpassed, and seven outstanding Elon athletes: L. J. "Hap" Perry of Sun City Center, Fla., Sal Gero of Greensboro, James M. Abbitt of Barton, Fla., Pete Williams of New Orleans, La., Tony Carcaterra of Lawrence, N. Y., Jack Boone of Greenville, N. C., and E. S. "Johnny" Johnson of Gerton, N. C.

Induction ceremonies were held in Whitley Auditorium on the Elon College campus. The Hall of Famers were also honored at a reception in West Dormitory Parlor, following Elon's 34-0 Homecoming victory over Catawba College.

Dr. Hook, who has been a member of the Elon faculty for 58 years and who is a 1913 graduate of the College, has served as the College's faculty representative in all three conferences of which Elon has been a member—the North Carolina Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, of which he was a founder; the North State Conference; and the present Carolinas Conference.

The NCAC included four large schools—Carolina, State, Wake Forest, and Trinity, now Duke—and six small schools. When the Little Six split in 1930 to form the North State Conference, Dr. Hook was one of those who helped get the ball rolling. He served as president of the conference on several occasions and is one of four men who have served as Conference Commissioner.

The long-time friend of Elon athletics first became associated with intercollegiate athletics when he was a graduate student at Elon in 1914. He served as a graduate manager for all the College's teams and since that time he has known personally almost every athlete to wear the Maroon and Gold uniform. Dr. Hook was introduced by President Daniele.

"Peahead" Walker coached three sports—football, basketball, and baseball—at Elon with great success. He boasted a 45-42-3 record in football, 124-84 in basketball and 106-46 in baseball. He won five football championships, four conference crowns in basketball and six in baseball.

Following his ten year career at Elon, where he also was awarded his Bachelor's degree while on the coaching staff, he coached at Wake Forest for 14 seasons taking his teams to two bowl games. After a year at Yale as an assistant coach, he coached the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League for eight years, winning four divisional titles.

Walker quit coaching in 1960 to scout for the New York Giants and in 1968 he was elected to the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame, just two years before his death. His wife, Mrs. Flonnie Walker, was present Saturday for the induction.

"Hap" Perry was a three-letter man of the early 20's who later returned to his Alma Mater to serve as three-sport coach. He was an All-Stater in football and basketball and served as captain of the '20 and '22 football teams as well as the '22 basketball team. As a quarterback, he led his team in scoring in 1921 with five TDs and during his senior year, he even kicked a few field goals.

Perry was also the leading scorer in basketball his last two years scoring 175 and 127 points respectively. On the baseball team, he was a good pitcher.

When he returned to Elon in 1946, he coached the first post-World War II team to a 4-5-1 record and was 4-6 the following year. He posted a 16-10 record in basketball (8-4 in the conference) and a 14-10 mark (10-6 in league play) in baseball. Perry was presented for his award by W. B. Terrell.

Sal Gero, football coach at Ben Smith High School in Greensboro, was Elon's first two-time All-American having been named to the Associated Press Little All-America teams of 1950 and 1951 as a tackle.

During those two years, Gero was also named to all-conference and all-state teams. During his senior year he was a tri-captain and, although he was a tackle, he scored one touchdown and 40 extra points as the team's kicking specialist. Luther Byrd, Elon's Publicity Director for many years, presented Gero for his induction.

James M. "Jack Rabbit" Abbitt, a native of Roxboro, was a three-letter man at Elon, but his specialty was football and he could do it all—he ran well, returned kickoffs, punted, passed, kicked extra points and was a pass receiver as well.

During his four-year career in the middle thirties, he scored 26 TDs and five extra points. He still holds the school and conference records for the longest punt—85 yards. He was three times named to all-conference teams, twice to all-state teams and was an honorable mention All-American his senior year.

In two years of basketball, Abbitt averaged nearly four points per game and as a senior he batted .309 and had 15 RBIs on the baseball team. He played with the Washington Redskins for two years after graduating from Elon. Abbitt's former teammate, E. Hal Bradley, made the Hall of Fame presentation.

Forty years after graduating from Elon, Pete Williams still holds six all-time Elon records—for most points in a single game (33 against Atlantic Christian), most TDs in a single game (5 in same game), most points in a single season (88 in 1930), most points in a career (225), most TDs in a career (33) and most TDs responsible for (49—33 running and 16 passing.)

Williams was Elon's leading scorer each of the four years he was here and he was named to all-conference and all-state teams for three years. He was also team captain his junior year.

As a baseball player, he was captain his senior year and a .333 hitter his junior year. Williams was unable to attend the induction ceremonies and his nephew, Frank Hicks of Atlanta, Ga., received the award from James M. Waggoner.

Tony Carcaterra, who lettered in football, basketball and baseball, was an all-conference choice in all three sports, an all-stater in baseball and football and an All-American in 1958 as an end.

Named all-conference three years and all-state twice in football, he caught 66 passes in his four-year career for 895 yards and nine touchdowns. He was the team's co-captain his senior year.

As a baseball player, his is third on Elon's all-time list for career RBIs with 71 and second for two-base hits with 20. He had a four-year career batting average of .307 and led the team with two-baggers for three years, triples for two years and home runs his junior year. He was named all-conference and all-state his sophomore and junior years.

Carcaterra lettered in basketball all three years that he played, was the team's leading scorer his senior year with 279 points and was the top rebounder all three years. He was an honorable mention all-conference player his senior year. Carcaterra's former teammate, Lynn Newcomb, was on hand to present this award.

Jack Boone, a member of the health and physical education faculty at East Carolina University, played outstanding football at Elon just prior to World War II. He was twice named to all-conference teams and was an all-stater his senior year after having received honorable mention for all-state honors his sophomore and junior years. He was also an honorable mention All-American his senior year.

Boone scored 66 points his senior year on eight touchdowns and 16 extra points and was also an outstanding punter. Boone's former Elon College coach, Horace Hendrickson, made the presentation.

E. S. "Johnny" Johnson, one of Elon's greats of the early 20's, earned 14 letters in four sports and even coached track his senior year.

As an end in football, Johnson accounted for five TDs, 14 extra points and one field goal in three seasons. He served as team captain his senior year.

On the basketball court, he was the team's leading scorer for three years and was captain his sophomore year. He was an outstanding second baseman on the baseball team for four years and ran track for four years. Johnson was presented for his award by W. B. Terrell.

A second group of Sports Hall of Famers is expected to be named in the Spring for induction in May during Alumni Weekend. The Selection Committee can name as many as five persons each year to the Sports Hall of Fame after the first year. Former student athletes are not eligible for induction until 10 years after their last year of active participation at Elon.

A Success Story Called Homecoming

A rousing 34-0 win over Catawba College, the Sports Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony, the crowning of Homecoming Queen Marlene Carrico, campus concerts, receptions, luncheon and dinner all combined to make the 1972 Homecoming Day a memorable one for the College.

Marching bands from Southern Alamance, Western Alamance and Elon College performed concert style on the steps of Alamance Building from 9:30 until 10:45 a.m. The morning reception and registration was hosted in the Varsity Room of Long Student Center by the Elon College International Club. A large crowd began to gather and Whitley Auditorium was filled for the Hall of Fame Induction ceremonies.

A luncheon was held on the lawn for alumni and students. After the Homecoming football game, a reception for the Hall of Fame inductees was held in the lounge of West Dormitory. This reception was hosted by the Elon College housemothers.

Homecoming 1972 was a success story for all who were involved. We owe an enthusiastic round of applause to the Alumni Relations Office and others who played an important part in the planning.

Intercollegiate Teams Added To Sports Program

Elon has gone from one intercollegiate team—baseball—in 1899 to twelve teams in 1972. The athletic teams now in competition with other colleges are football, soccer, women's volleyball, cross-country, basketball, swimming, baseball, golf, tennis, track, women's basketball and wrestling.

Five new teams have been added to the athletic program during the past two years and four of them are off and rolling.

Last winter women's basketball was introduced on the Elon campus on the intercollegiate level. Under the leadership of Coach Kay Yow, a native of nearby Gibsonville, the women posted a 5-11 season. "This year we have a number of players who were excellent high school players," stated Miss Yow, "and although we still have a young team, I feel sure that we will be more representative of Elon's overall athletic program."

Another sport which was officially begun this fall is women's volleyball, also coached by Miss Yow. Their highly respectful record this year is 17-4 against such teams as Duke, Wake Forest, Carolina, St. Andrews, Catawba, Atlantic Christian, Meredith, UNC-Greensboro, Guilford and Appalachian.

"We are improving with every game," added Miss Yow. "Team play is an important part of this game and the more we work together, the better we are going to be."

Soccer was introduced also at Elon this fall. Coach Charles Harris, a new member of the health and physical education faculty, is the coach. "We have a great amount of enthusiasm from our players. Very few of them are experienced players and only one or two have the potential of being great players, but given a few years, Elon should have a competitive team in the sport," stated Coach Harris.

The fourth new team, cross-country, is being coached by alumnus Clayton Johnson, Elon's offensive football coach. "In our first meet, our boys were just out for the experience," explained Johnson. "Not a single one had ever run in a cross-country race before in his life, but every one of them finished."

"In the second meet," continued Johnson, all of the runners improved their times. If this kind of progress continues, we should be very competitive by the end of the season. And then this spring, look out!"

The last of the new sports is still in the planning stages, but is an offspring of the new physical education annex completed in the summer of 1970. The swimming team to be coached by Coach Don Kelly, will be using the new olympic-size swimming pool and diving facilities.

BULLETIN

The Fighting Christians posted their greatest win over the Lenoir Rhyne Bears in the last home game of the season to capture at least a share of the Carolinas Conference championship, their third in the past four years. It will not be known until Thanksgiving—when Presbyterian and Newberry play—whether Elon will take the crown outright or share it with Presbyterian.

The 58-19 win over the Bears set a new record for most points scored against a Lenoir Rhyne team as well as a record for the greatest margin of victory. The win was the fourth in the league for the Christians against one tie. Overall, the Christians were 6-3-1 with the season finale against Gardner-Webb yet to be played.

The Maroon and Gold forces posted wins over Guilford, Newberry, Catawba and Lenoir Rhyne in the league and Shophard and nationally ranked Carson-Newman in non-conference play. Losses were to Troy State, N. C. Central and Wofford with the tie coming against Presbyterian.

McKeon Named Kansas City Manager

Jack McKeon, a graduate of Elon, has been named manager of the Kansas City Royals in the American League.

A native of South Amboy, N. Y., who now lives in Burlington, McKeon was a catcher during his 10-year playing career that ended as a player-manager with Fox Cities of the Three-I League in 1959. He was a scout with the Minnesota Twins from '65 to '67 before being hired by the Royals.

The 41-year-old McKeon, who has managed the Omaha farm team the last four years, piloted the AAA affiliate to a 71-69 record this year, good for second place in the American Association.

He was named manager of the year in the American Association in 1969-70 when he guided Omaha to a 73-65 record and first place in the Eastern Division. He led Omaha to first in '68-'69 with an 85-55 mark. He also was named manager of the year with Wilson of the Carolina League in 1961.

"Mr. Elon" Offers Alumni Challenge

Alumni of Elon College have received the challenge of an anonymous donor that will provide the College with up to $25,000 in matching funds for its Alumni Fund during the current fiscal year which began on June 1, 1972.

According to Elon's president, Dr. J. E. Danielewicz, "Mr. Elon," as he will be known during the challenge drive, has agreed to personally match, up to a grand total of $25,000, all alumni contributions through May 31 over and above the gifts of last year.

For alumni who contributed to the College last year, "Mr. Elon" will match dollar for dollar the amount that the contribution this year exceeds his contribution of last year.

If an alumnus did not give last year, but contributed during the two years prior to that, the challenger will match the amount that exceeds the higher total annual gift during that period.

Alumni who have not contributed in the past three years can meet the challenge in another way: their entire gift to this year's Alumni Fund will be matched in full.

Dr. Danielewicz explained that there is no limit on the amount of each individual's gift that may be matched up to the $25,000 total matching fund and that gifts may be made to the College for any purpose.

Thus far this year, "Mr. Elon" has matched $2,473.72 in alumni giving.

Carelock Named Young Alumni Trustee

A science teacher in the Burlington City School System has been elected to serve a two-year term as a Young Alumni Trustee on the Board of Trustees of Elon College.

Clyde Dean Carelock, a native of Oakboro and a former staff sergeant in the U. S. Air Force, was elected to succeed Gary Oxford, a native of Elon College.

Carelock is a 1971 graduate of Elon College and teaches science at Broadview Middle School. After receiving his high school diploma from Oakboro High, he joined the Air Force and served in the Medical Corp until 1967 when he was discharged with the rank of staff sergeant.

As a student at Elon, Carelock was a laboratory assistant in the biology department and a Dean's List student. He was elected to membership in Alpha Chi, the national scholastic honorary society.

Carelock and his wife, the former Nancy Jane Hatley, reside in the College Garden Apartments in Elon College. He attended his first Board meeting this fall.

Special Campus Visitor

Mrs. Mildred Watt Haff, assistant professor of mathematics at Elon from 1947 to 1959, was a recent visitor to the Elon College campus. Her late husband, Dr. Richard M. Haff, taught biology at Elon for 15 years. Mrs. Haff now lives in Bradenton, Florida.

said: "Allen Gant was an outstanding leader in our community and a good friend of Elon College. We are highly pleased to have this scholarship fund established in his memory. As an endowment fund the principal amount will not be spent, but one or more students will be able to attend Elon each year because of this generous gift in Mr. Gant's memory."

Another scholarship fund has been established at Elon College to honor one of the original members of the Elon College Board of Trustees who served for more than 50 years—the late Edward Everett Holland of Nansemond County, Va.

The E. E. Holland Scholarship has been made possible by a gift of $10,341 from the estate of Eunice Ensor Holland, widow of Mr. Holland. They were married in September of 1920.

Holland, a graduate of Richmond College and the University of Virginia, was serving as Commonwealth Attorney in Nansemond County when Elon College was chartered by the Legislature of North Carolina on March 11, 1889. He was married to Otella Lee, who died in 1897, at the time and they had one child, Mrs. E. F. Creekmore, who now lives in New Orleans.

As an original trustee of the College, Holland's name appears on the charter of the College. He actively served on the Board until his death in 1941.

Other members of the Holland family have also served on the Elon College Board of Trustees. Miss Susie Holland, a niece of Mr. Holland and a member of Elon's Class of 1905, served as a member of the Elon Board from 1937 to 1957. Dr. J. E. Rawls, husband of Miss Holland's sister, was also a graduate of Elon in the Class of 1896 and a former trustee of the College. Dr. Rawls' son, Dr. J. E. Rawls, Jr., and his son-in-law, Dr. George M. Bullard, are presently serving on the Elon Board.

During his tenure as a trustee, Holland served his state as a member of both the State Senate, being elected in 1908 and again in 1930, and the United States House of Representatives, serving the second district from 1911 until 1921.

Apperson Performs Concert in Abbey

Professor Richard Apperson

Professor Richard Apperson of the Elon College music faculty has presented an organ recital in London's famed Westminster Abbey on the evening of January 24, 1973.

Professor Apperson's recital was the second in winter series of seven Wednesday evening programs to be given between Christmas and Lent in the Abbey, whose overall musical program is under the supervision of Dr. Douglas Guest. Other recitals in the series will be played by Rolf Schonstedt of Germany, David Patrick, Christopher Bowes, Timothy Farrell and David Bruce-Payne of London, and John Rose of Sacred Heart Cathedral, Newark, New Jersey.

The Abbey has long had a series of summer recitals, but this will mark only the second year of the winter series. Professor Apperson and John Rose will be the only American organists to have performed during these two years.

Organ music in Westminster Abbey has a long and distinguished history. The earliest mention of any musical matter in Abbey records is dated June 11, 1304, and refers to the organ in Lady Chapel. A listing of Abbey organists would include such eminent names as Henry Purcell, Orlando Gibbons, John Blow and Robert Whyte.

The present Abbey organ is an instrument of 84 stops, played from a 4-manual console. Work at building it was begun by the world-renowned organ firm of Harrison & Harrison of Durham, England, in 1936, when the lay-out of the organ loft was redesigned.

This organ was first used at the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth in May 1937, and it was later redone for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in 1953.

At Elon Professor Apperson teaches organ and directs the College choir. He is also organist-choralmaster at the First Christian Church in Burlington. A native of Newport News, Virginia, Professor Apperson was awarded a scholarship from The Presser Foundation of Philadelphia to work towards his Bachelor's degree at Elon College. During his student years at Elon, he won first place in the statewide organ contest sponsored by the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs and also won first place in the Southeastern district, encompassing North Carolina, South

College Announces New Degree Program In Medical Technology

A program of instruction leading to the Bachelor of Science degree in medical technology has been established at Elon College.

In announcing the establishment of the program, President Danieley revealed that Biomedical Laboratories, Inc. of Burlington will provide the laboratories and teaching staff for clinical training which is included in the curriculum for the B. S. degree program.

Recently approved by the College faculty, the new program is designed in accordance with guidelines prepared by the Council of Medical Education of the American Medical Association with the cooperation of the Board of Schools of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists and the American Society of Medical Technologists.

The curriculum for the new B. S. degree calls for three years of classroom training at the College, with emphasis on courses in chemistry, biology, physics, mathematics and statistics, and one year of clinical experience at Biomedical Laboratories.

The program involves a winter term internship during the student's sophomore or junior year of college. The senior year will be spent in study and clinical work at Biomedical.

"Throughout its history, Elon has had an outstanding reputation in undergraduate preparation for advanced study in the health professions," said Dr. Danieley in announcing the new program. "Because of the tremendous demand for certified medical technologists and the outstanding opportunities for education and training offered at Biomedical Laboratories, we feel that Elon College will be able to render important service in this field.

"The program is being designed not only to lead to the B. S. degree, but to prepare the graduate to take the examination for registration by the Board of Registry of Medical Technologists of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists," the Elon president added.

Dr. Danieley stated that a member of the Elon College faculty in the sciences will be Preclinical Advisor to lead in the development of the curriculum.

Truman Held Honorary Degree From Elon

While there are many North Carolinians who recall that John F. Kennedy received his first honorary degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill while he was serving as 35th president of the United States, few realize that Harry S. Truman was also awarded his initial honorary degree from a North Carolina institution of higher education.

While the two schools are located only a few miles apart, the times—like the presidents themselves—were quite different.

Kennedy received his honorary degree at UNC-CH on Founders Day of 1961—not long after he had been inaugurated as President of the United States in all the pageantry and style that seemed to fit his personality—in Kanan Stadium with that same kind of "pomp and ceremony" and press coverage.

Truman's receipt of the honorary Doctor of Laws went almost unnoticed by the public and the press. In fact, President Truman wasn't even on hand for the presentation himself.

The date was May 28, 1945—just 46 days after Truman had been swept into office as the nation's 33rd president by the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt and less than three weeks after the surrender of Germany to the Allied forces in Europe.

The institution was Elon College—a small church-related college that was graduating a class of 25 students. Eighty percent of the class was female—Elon's male population, like that of most coed colleges, had dwindled during the war.

Since Truman's absence at the College's 55th annual commencement ceremonies had been expected by college officials, a great deal of publicity had not been generated. When Dr. Leon Edgar Smith, then president of Elon, had asked Truman's aides if the President would be willing to accept an honorary degree from Elon, their response was that he would be honored, but because of the war, he would be unable to accept the degree personally.

Despite the anticipated absence of Truman, preparations were made in Whitley Auditorium—site of the graduation exercises—just as they would have been were the president going to be present.

Dr. I. E. Danieley, president of Elon now, was a junior at the College that year and remembers that the auditorium was decorated "with a few more palms and flowers" than was usual for a graduation ceremony.

Congressman Carl Durham of North Carolina's 6th district represented Truman at the Elon ceremonies while the President was at the White House in conference with former President Herbert Hoover and other officials on the food situation of the war-torn countries of Europe.

Other dignitaries on hand included North Carolina's Secretary of State Thad Eure, then a Winter Term . . . Study, Travel

Young men and women from Elon College spent a good part of the month of January traveling and studying in Austria and England as members of three travel-study groups that spent the Winter Term in Europe.

Prof. Don Kelly of the health and physical education department directed the newest of the three courses that had students skiing some of the most famous ski slopes in Europe.

The skiing students spent one week at St. Anton, a week at Innsbruck and a week at Dorf-Gastein after travelling by Lufthansa German Airways from New York.

Students enrolled in the English Studies in Britain course and the Studies in British History course were in England for a full four weeks under the direction and leadership of Dr. Martha Smith of the English department and Dr. James P. Elder Jr., and Dr. George Troxler of the history department.

The two latter groups were based in London during their visit, but many traveled to the countryside of England and to the continent in addition to seeing most of the historical and literary sites of the city.

This is the third year that the English department has sponsored a study-travel course abroad and the fifth year that a group of history students from Elon has studied in England.

In addition to the three groups abroad, another class was offered in conjunction with the Winter Term in the mountains of North Carolina. A number of Elon students were enrolled in a skiing course that was conducted at one of North Carolina's ski resorts during the first week in January, one week prior to the actual Winter Term. This permitted students to take the skiing course in addition to a regular Winter Term course.

And still another group of students, music students this time, toured the northern half of the East Coast during the Winter Term giving concerts and conducting clinics at high schools and colleges in Virginia, North Carolina, West Virginia and Maryland as well as playing for the New York Brass Conference.

The Emanons, who have been conducting winter tours since 1964 when they appeared at the New York World's Fair for the first time, were back on the road under the direction of Prof. Jack White and Dr. David Bregg. While in New York, Prof. White was also the keynote speaker at the Brass Conference.

After graduating from Elon College, Professor Apperson earned the Master of Sacred Music degree from the School of Sacred Music at Union Theological Seminary, New York City. While a graduate student at Union, he was appointed assistant organist-choirmaster at New York's St. James' Episcopal Church on Madison Avenue.

Recently he completed a two-year term as chairman of the Organ Division of the North Carolina Music Teachers Association. He has studied under Fletcher Moore at Elon College, Searle Wright at Union Theological Seminary and David Lumsden of New College, Oxford University, England. Professor Apperson has played many recitals in the eastern United States and has been soloist with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra.

Preston Rockhoff, former director of the College of Church Musicians at the National Cathedral in Washington, D. C., wrote of one of Apperson's recent performances: "one of the most satisfying and thoroughly musical recitals I have heard. . . blessed with that quality, elusive but recognizable—good taste."

For the Abbey program Professor Apperson performed works by Bach, Wesley, Buxtehude, Wright, Dupre, Vienne and Liszt.

member of the College's board of trustees and now the board's chairman, and a prominent Durham insurance executive, J. L. Crumpton, who was graduated from Elon in the Class of 1917 and now serves as chairman of the Development Committee of Elon's Board of Trustees. Crumpton was the chief marshal.

As he conferred the degree upon President Truman that day, Dr. Smith said that the death of Roosevelt "elevated to the presidency of the United States of America the favorite son of Missouri, the friend of the rich and the poor, the champion of human rights, the embodiment of pure democracy, the humble exponent of Christian faith, and the faithful and true servant of all. His Excellency the Honorable Harry S. Truman.

"He was educated in the schools of our country, trained for Statecraft in the conflicts of our social, economic, political and religious life of democratic America; a soldier of merit; a legislator of note; a leader by nature; elevated to the high privilege by Providence; and marked for destiny in the council of eternity.

"Since assuming the great responsibilities of the Presidency in this crucial period, his every public utterance has been marked by sanity, sound judgment and devout faith in Almighty God. America is proud to be led in such a time by such a man."

President Smith concluded by saying: "This is a proud, high moment in the life of Elon College. We take pleasure in conferring this honor upon our nation's most worthy son."

Congressman Durham's acceptance of the degree for President Truman was as simple and direct as the President's might have been personally: "The President would have me express to Elon College his high appreciation for this degree."

The degree, the honorary Doctor of Laws, was the first—and only—ever awarded by Elon upon a President of the United States while in office. In 1962, Elon awarded an honorary degree to Lyndon Johnson while he was vice-president.

In the late '50's, after Dr. Smith had retired as president of Elon and the Truman Library had been completed in Independence, the former Elon president visited the former President of the United States in his office at the Library.

"Dr. Smith said that President Truman greeted him very cordially at their meeting," recalled Dr. A. L. Hook, longtime member of the Elon faculty and the College's registrar at the time Truman's honorary degree was awarded. "He said that Truman expressed gratitude to him (Dr. Smith) and to Elon for the honor, remarking that he had not gone to college himself. Mr. Truman also took him around the Library—and the degree was on display there along with other honorary degrees he had received later in his administration."

culum, recruit students for the program, and serve as an academic adviser to the students while they are in training.

The College will name a Pathologist Director of the program in cooperation with Biomedical Laboratories and an Educational Coordinator from the staff of Biomedical. Both will serve as members of the College faculty in connection with the program's clinical training.

Students will be permitted to enroll in the new program for the first time in the fall of 1973.

Biomedical Laboratories was incorporated in April of 1969 and began testing specimens for North Carolina physicians later that year. Approximately half of the staff of 160 full-time and 16 part-time members is based in Burlington.

Maroon & Gold Sportsline

The Elon College basketball team, after getting off to a shaky start, is back in the thick of things in the Carolinas Conference as it defends its league crown for the second straight year. Midway through January, the team had posted a 10-4 record in overall play and was 5-2 in league action, just one-half game behind the league leaders.

The Christians have been getting good play from the front three. Larry Trautwein, Diffy Ross and rookie Thomas Moore. Guard Wayne Ellington has been ranked second in the NAIA in free throw shooting accuracy this season and the team was sixteenth in the nation in January in team defense.

Coach Bill Miller is being assisted this year by one of his former players, Bill Morningstar, a member of the Class of 1964.

Elon wrestler in action

Coach Mickey Brown is looking for another big year in wrestling this season, and if the first match is any indication, it will be a big year. The Christian grapplers defeated Southern Conference foe Citadel 32-12. The team had a 7-2 record last season but didn't advance in post-season competition due to the fact that a district tournament was not held. A tournament will be held this year and team members are anxious to represent Elon well in that competition.

Women's basketball got underway during the first week in February and Elon's chances of finishing near the top in state-wide competition are heightened this year by the addition of freshman Susan Yow, considered to be one of the best women players in college basketball in the nation. Elon will also serve as host for the state tournament in March.

There were honors galore for Elon's championship football team this year. For leading his team to its 7-3-1 record and its third conference title in four years, Coach Red Wilson won Coach of the Year honors in the Carolinas Conference, District 26 of the NAIA and District 3 of the American Football Coaches Association (College Division). Honorable mention All-America honors went to runningback Mike Lawton (AF and NAIA) and defensive back Brent Sexton (NAIA). Lawton was also named to the All-State, All-District and All-Conference teams and was named Back of the Year in the conference. Honorable mention All-Staters included end Curtis Leary, center Steve Yuskovich and quarterback Joe West. All-Conference honors also went to West, Leary, Yuskovich, Sexton, Nick Angelone, Scott Rush and Glenn Ellis. All-District honors were bestowed upon Yuskovich, West, Angelone and Sexton.

When Elon won the first annual Belmont Abbey Classic basketball tournament during the Christmas holidays, center Larry Trautwein was named Most Valuable Player in the event and Thomas Moore joined him on the All-Tournament team.

Whitley Auditorium

Before Renovation . . .

Whitley Memorial Auditorium has undergone a dramatic change since last summer. For almost fifty years Whitley has provided the College and community a place for assemblies, meetings, concerts, and other cultural events. It was the only meeting place for Elon College Community Church for many years. The renovation has restored much of the original beauty and elegance of this proud campus landmark which was built after the fire of 1923. Until this time, no major improvements had been made in the building since its initial construction.

The renovation, which was made possible through the E4 Fund Campaign, has brought to Whitley Memorial Auditorium a new look with fresh plaster and paint, modern wiring throughout the building, up-graded sound amplification, improved lighting for the house and stage areas, music studios, and faculty offices. The new look and after!

also features beautifully carpeted aisles and a predominantly gold master curtain on which the College colors are blended with a symbolic "E."

Individual, theatre-type, cushioned seats have been installed on the main level and in the balcony. The color scheme of the tiled floor complements the burnished gold walls and the natural wood tones of the auditorium.

"The auditorium renovation project is quite impressive," President J. E. Danieleley said. "The auditorium is the site of most of our cultural events, all of which are open to the general public, and now our friends as well as the members of the College family can enjoy these programs in more comfort and with more enjoyment. We owe a debt of gratitude to those who made the building possible in the '20's and again to those who have made this renovation possible through gifts to the E4 Fund."

ALUMNI DAY PLANS ANNOUNCED

Moody To Be Honored As Outstanding Alumnus

Dr. C. LeGrande Moody, Jr.

Trustee Board Holds Spring Meeting

The Board of Trustees of Elon College gathered on the Elon campus for its annual spring meeting on March 7 and amended its bylaws to provide for an additional standing committee that shall concern itself with the "social, cultural and religious life of the campus community."

The Campus Life Committee, proposed to the Board by the Executive Committee to which nine trustees were elected, will receive regular reports from the dean of students, the associate dean of students, the chaplain and the campus minister as well as consult with these officials, the College administration, and officers of the Student Government Association concerning various phases of campus life.

Previously the Board had only three standing committees—education, business and development. Each of the College's 36 trustees is named to one of the standing committees.

The Board also has an executive committee which is composed of the officers of the Board, the committee chairmen and three other trustees.

Among the committee reports heard by the Board was one from Royall Speece, Jr., chairman of the presidential selection committee. He told the trustees that the committee was progressing with its assignment of selecting a person to succeed Dr. J. E. Danieley as president of the College and described the work done by consultation committees representing faculty, students, alumni and the Southern Conference of the United Church of Christ.

Other committee reports heard by the Board were from George Colclough, secretary of the Board, for the executive committee, T. S. Earp for the business committee, Woodrow Piland for the campus life committee, Dr. Ramsey Cammack for the development committee and Dr. J. E. Rawls, Jr. for the education committee.

Alex Vardavas of Danville, Va., '72, was elected to serve as a Young Alumni Trustee.

Dr. C. LeGrande Moody, Jr., a district superintendent of the United Methodist Church and a member of Elon's class of 1936, will be honored by the Elon College Alumni Association on Saturday evening, May 19, when he is presented the 1973 Outstanding Alumnus of the Year award.

Announcement of the award was made recently by Tyrone Rowell, director of alumni relations for Elon. The award will be presented at the Alumni Banquet in McEwen Dining Hall as the highlight of Alumni Weekend.

A native of Dillon, S. C., Dr. Moody was ordained upon graduation from Elon in May of 1936 into the Congregational Christian Church. He attended Duke and Yale divinity schools, receiving his B.D. degree from Yale in 1942.

He then joined the United States Navy and served as a chaplain until 1947 with duty on the USS Texas, at the U.S. Coast Guard Training Station in Groton, Conn., and at the U.S. Naval Medical Center on Guam.

Upon his discharge from the Navy, Dr. Moody transferred his affiliation to the South Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church. He has served as a Methodist minister in churches at Whitmire, Ware Shoals, Rock Hill, Spartanburg, North Augusta and Columbia as well as at the Epworth Children's Home in Columbia before he was named district superintendent of the Greenwood District of the South Carolina Conference in 1969.

Dr. Moody has served in a number of other capacities in connection with his ministry and is held in high esteem by ministers and laymen alike.

Married to the former Elizabeth Ann Balentine of Greenville, Dr. Moody and his wife now live in Greenwood. They have two daughters, Fran (Mrs. W. H. Ferguson, Jr.) and Libby (Mrs. P. B. Bryan, Jr.).

LBJ Visit To Campus Recalled

The news of the death of former President Lyndon Baines Johnson was received with surprise all across the nation, but to many people who remember his visit to Elon College in 1962, the news brought back memories of that day.

The last of America's living former presidents visited Elon College as the Vice President of the United States in March of his second year in office to deliver the Founders Day address in the College's Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. Arrangements for his visit had been made by Dr. J. E. Danieley, in his fourth year as President of the College, and by Senator B. Everett Jordan, a per-

Six To Be Inducted Into Sports Hall Of Fame

Six of Elon College's all-time great student-athletes are scheduled to be inducted into the Elon College Sports Hall of Fame on May 19 during Commencement Weekend on the College campus.

Those to be honored include James "Hank" Hamrick, outstanding pitcher and basketball player of the '50s from Roanoke, Va.; Gil Watts of Leesburg, Fla., Elon's only baseball All-American; Jack Gardner of Beaufort, a great basketball and baseball player whose college career was interrupted by the death of his father; Hollis Atkinson of Live Oak, Fla., a three-letter man for the Fighting Christians in the early teens; C. V. "Lefty" Briggs of Reidsville, one of the best pitchers in Elon baseball history and also an outstanding basketball player in the late '20's; and the late C. C. "Jack" Johnson, another of Elon's early three-letter men who returned to his Alma Mater to coach.

The former Elon greats will be inducted at a special ceremony in Whitley Auditorium at 11 a. m. on Saturday, May 19, and will be presented with plaques commemorating the event. Their names will also be engraved upon a permanent plaque that is on display in the Huey Room of Alumni Memorial Gymnasium.

James "Hank" Hamrick

"Hank" Hamrick, who attended Draper High School before coming to Elon, was a forward on Elon basketball teams in 1950 and 1951 and later in 1954 and 1955. As a freshman, he led the Maroon and Gold forces of Coach "Doc" Mathis to the North State Tournament finals and was named to the All-Tournament team. He scored a total of 500 points in his four-year career.

But Hamrick's forte was baseball. As a pitcher, he had a 14-4 won-loss record as a left-hander and was named to all-conference teams all four years he played for Elon. His career record includes 170 strikeouts, a pair of two-hitters, a three-hitter, three four-hitters and a victory in 1950 over Sanford of the Tobacco Belt League. He was also a fair hitter for a pitcher compiling a career batting average of .191.

Gil Watts

Gil Watts, who came to Elon from Laurinburg, gained All-American recognition during his junior year in 1958 as a hitter and as a pitcher. That season he led the team with a .362 batting average and had an 8-1 record on the mound. On the all-time list of Elon baseball players, Watts ranks first in RBIs (77), second in home runs (12), strikeouts (191) and won-loss record (23-6), fifth in batting average (.368), seventh in runs (63), ninth in hits (93) and tenth in doubles (13).

He was Elon's triple crown hitter in 1958 and 1959 and once hit three home runs in one game. As a sophomore he hit .529 and as a freshman he pitched a no-hitter against Guilford. During his senior year, he was so feared by opposing pitchers that he was walked 23 times.

Watts also lettered in basketball during his junior and senior years.

Jack Gardner

Jack Gardner, a native of Portsmouth, Ohio, would probably have become Elon's first 1,000 point producer had he played out his four years, but the three-time all-conference basketball player had to interrupt his studies after ten games in the 1941-42 season to go to work as his father had tuberculosis. In three and one-half years, Gardner tallied 937 points for the Maroon and Gold and was averaging better than 16 points a game at a time when very few small college cagers were consistent double-figure scorers. He is still 17th on the all-time list of Elon scorers.

Gardner led the team in scoring as a freshman and was named to the All-Conference team for three years. During his junior year, he was also named to the All-Tournament team and was the conference's Most Valuable Player as he set a new season scoring mark for the league with 369 points.

On the baseball diamond, Gardner was a swift shortstop and swung a hot bat. His career batting average for three years was .368 and during his sophomore year he hit .451 to lead the league.

Hollis Atkinson

One of the early great athletes at Elon was Hollis Atkinson, a native of Holly Springs. He was center for Elon's first four basketball teams and played under Elon's first professional coach, Bob Doik. He was considered to be a good defensive man, a great jumper and an accurate shooter from under the basket.

As a pitcher for Elon's baseball teams in the early teens, Atkinson was known as "Hard Luck" Hollis. He pitched three one-hitters in his career and pitched 10 games in which he struck out from 10 to 15 batters each. But his won-loss record was only 6-9. He was a fastball pitcher with a good curve who failed to get the hits from his teammates to win more games.

When the Vice President arrived on the Elon campus that balmy March 8 in one of three Army helicopters that had met his private plane at the Greensboro Airport, he was greeted by College and state officials and the strains of "The Yellow Rose of Texas" as played by the Southern Alamance High School band.

Johnson's party included Senator and Mrs. Jordan, Congressman Horace Kornegay, Senator Sam J. Ervin, Mrs. Bessie Staley Chestnam and a number of staff and security officers. They were greeted by President Danieley, Governor Terry Sanford, Secretary of State Thad Eure, Student Government President Clifford B. Herdy and other dignitaries.

record was only 6-9. He was a fastball pitcher with a good curve who failed to get the hits from his teammates to win more games.

In addition to playing basketball and baseball, Atkinson was also a member of the track team. In 1928 he was named to an All-Time Elon team by another Hall of Famer, E. S. "Johnny" Johnson, in both baseball and basketball.

C. V. "Lefty" Briggs

C. V. "Lefty" Briggs is one of three Briggs brothers from Reidsville who played baseball at Elon. "Lefty" and his younger brother, Mike, share the Christians' career record for most wins with 27. But "Lefty" was also a pretty good batsman hitting .272 in his career and .409 during his junior year.

Included in his four-year career for Elon are a one-hitter, a pair of two-hitters, a five-hitter and a six-hitter. As a sophomore he had a perfect mound record with eight wins against no losses and the following year he won eight while losing a single contest. Since he was a fairly good hitter, he played first base or in the outfield when not on the mound.

"Lefty" also played basketball during the four years between 1926 and 1930 and was captain of the team his junior year when he led the team in scoring with 106 points.

C. C. "Jack" Johnson

C. C. "Jack" Johnson played on Elon's athletic teams for only three years because when he was a freshman in 1911, Elon did not have an official athletic program. But when Bob Doik was hired as the College's first coach, Johnson was a mainstay in basketball, baseball and track.

Johnny Johnson named Jack to the All-Time Elon teams in basketball in 1928 and described him as being "a good floor worker, a good defensive man and an outstanding jumper." In baseball he was a slugger as he hit .384 his senior year.

A year after graduation from Elon, Johnson returned to his Alma Mater to coach basketball and baseball. He helped to get the College's football program started again in 1919 after ten years without the sport. In 1920 he led graduate work in physical education at Yale University and the following year he was appointed instructor in YMCA and physical education at the University of Colorado. In 1922 he assumed the duties of freshman football coach. At the time of his death in 1927, Johnson was a full professor, basketball coach and head of the physical education department at the University of Colorado.

These six inductees, named by the Hall of Fame committee for their accomplishments and records in winter and spring sports, will join 11 other Hall of Famers that were inducted last fall as the initial group of outstanding former student-athletes.

Candidates for induction must have been active as student-athletes for a period of at least ten years before they can be considered for induction. Those already named include Dr. A. L. Hook, D. C. "Peahead" Walker, L. J. "Hap" Perry, Sal Gero, James "Jack Rabbit" Abbott, Henry "Pete" Williams, Tony Carcatera and E. S. "Johnny" Johnson.

Founders Day Honors POWs

Elon College was the site of a news conference last month that brought national news coverage to the campus for the second time in nine months when three former Prisoners of War, on campus to participate in the College's annual Founders Day observance, told publicly of the horrors they had suffered as prisoners of the North Vietnamese in the Hanoi Hilton and other POW camps.

Camera crews and correspondents from the three major networks and six television stations in Virginia and North Carolina, as well as reporters and photographers from the two wire services and a score of radio stations and newspapers, converged on the campus March 29 when it was learned that Captain Jeremiah Denton, Commander Eugene McDaniel and Major Norman McDaniel had been released by the Pentagon to reveal details of their imprisonment in North Vietnam.

Dr. J. E. Danesley welcomes Elton College graduate and former POW Eugene B. McDaniel, '55, to the campus.

The three were on the campus as guests of the College for the observance of the 84th anniversary of the founding of Elon College. Capt. Denton, whose son Jim is the president of the student body, delivered the main address in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium that morning to a capacity crowd of 5,000 persons. Cmdr. McDaniel, a graduate of Elon in the Class of 1955, also spoke at the program and gave the closing prayer. Major McDaniel, whose wife is a native of Alamance County, also made brief remarks in the gym.

After Dr. J. E. Danesley, president of the College, had read a number of telegrams from distinguished invited guests who were unable to attend the program, Capt. Denton was introduced by his son. All three of the former POWs were warmly received as they were introduced.

Following the program, the three men and their families were the honored guests at a luncheon in McEwen Dining Hall attended by members of the Board of Trustees, faculty and staff, news media representatives and other invited guests. Capt. Denton's daughter, Madeleine, was surprised with a birthday cake presented to help celebrate her 16th birthday.

The news conference, held in Whitley Auditorium, was also attended by approximately 300 students and faculty. The conference lasted approximately 45 minutes during which time the three men related some of the experiences they had had while prisoners. Capt. Denton told of some of the tortures he suffered as well as being in solitary confinement for four of the seven and one-half years he was a POW.

Cmdr. McDaniel told of the horrible beatings he received with a four-foot farnbelt and of suffering with an open wound that was needed for about ten hours by his captors. He also told of being threatened by a guard for 45 minutes with a gun at his head.

Major McDaniel related that he had been hung by the neck on one occasion with his toes just touching the floor. As a junior officer, he said that he was not subjected to the prolonged tortures that Capt. Denton and Cmdr. McDaniel were.

Several of the television stations covering the news conference presented special broadcasts that night in addition to reports on the regular newscasts. Most of the daily newspapers in North Carolina carried articles on the program and the news conference, and newspapers across the nation carried reports of the Elon conference in wire service stories on all the POW news conferences held that day in various parts of the country.

Class of '23 Plans Golden Celebration

Reunion Classes To Be Recognized At Banquet

Class reunions, receptions, the Sports Hall of Fame inductions and the presentation of the Outstanding Alumnus of the Year award are among the highlights of Alumni Day scheduled for Saturday, May 19, 1973.

The class of 1923 celebrates its 50th anniversary this commencement and will be honored as this year's Golden Anniversary Class. Reservations have already been received from members living as far away as Florida. This class will have a special interest in the graduation ceremonies because its own graduation 50 years ago was held out-of-doors as a result of the January 18, 1923 fire which destroyed the old Administration Building. The 41 members of that year's graduating class received their degrees on a platform built under the oaks. Many of them are expected to attend this year's commencement.

Also to be recognized at a reunion breakfast and at the banquet will be the Silver Anniversary Class of 1948.

The Golden Anniversary Club is composed of members of those classes who have already passed their 50th anniversary. E. R. Riedel, '17, serves as president of this group and is encouraging its members to make the trip back to Elon College for their annual reunion. They will also be meeting for breakfast on Alumni Day in McEwen Dining Hall.

All of the reunion classes will be seated together and recognized during the alumni banquet. Also, Dr. C. LeGrande Moody, Jr., '38, will be presented the "Outstanding Alumnus of the Year" award.

Alumni Association President Irene Hook Covington, '41, will preside at the banquet.

After a fire in January 1923 destroyed the Auditorium, the Class of 1923 had an outdoor graduation. This year the class gathers on the campus again for its Golden Anniversary.

Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, scene for the Founders Day program, was filled to capacity with students, alumni, friends of the College and area school students. The event received widespread publicity from a large number of TV stations, including the three major networks, numerous newspapers, plus national wire service.

The 50 or so news reporters and correspondents at Elon for the conference were assisted by a group of press aides, all members of Kappa Sigma fraternity, that had been organized by the College News Bureau as part of the preparation for the news conference.

Dr. Moody is currently serving as district superintendent of the United Methodist Church in the Greenwood District of the South Carolina Conference.

Hamrick was a basketball and baseball standout during the 1950's. He was presented for his award by former teammate Ben Kendall. Gil Watts is Elon's only baseball All-American receiving the distinction in 1958. His former coach, Dr. Jack Sanford, presented him for induction. Ohio native, Jack Gardner, was introduced by Rev. Jim Waggoner. Gardner compiled outstanding records in both baseball and basketball. As a junior he was selected the conference's most valuable player and still ranks 17th on the all-time list of Elon scorers. Hollis Atkinson was one of the early great athletes at Elon and played under the College's first professional coach, Bob Doak. Dr. A. L. Baseball Team Claims Title

Elon's baseball team set a team record for most wins in a season this spring as the Fighting Christians won 24 of their 35 games (tying another record for most games played) on their way to the NAIA District 26 championship and the runner-up spot in the NAIA Area 7 playoffs at Pembroke.

Coach Jerry Drake's forces finished the regular season behind High Point in the Carolinas Conference and in District 26 with a record of 16 wins and 7 losses. After winning the first two games of the conference tourney, the Christians fell to the High Point nine in two games for the runner-up spot in the league.

But the Christians were not to be denied. Less than a week later they won the District 26 championship by defeating Gardner-Webb and High Point and advanced to the NAIA Area 7 playoffs, just one step from the NAIA National Finals in Phoenix, Arizona, where the top eight teams in the nation would meet.

After losing the initial game of the playoffs to West Liberty State, Elon took wins over Erskine, West Liberty and Pembroke to reach the finals in the double elimination tournament. But the nationally-ranked Indians had more pitchers to call on than did the Christians and eliminated the Maroon and Gold nine, 6-3.

In addition to Coach of the Year honors in District 26 that went to Coach Drake, a number of other players reaped all-star honors. Outfielder Wayne Ellington and catcher Drew Coble were named to the All-State team while pitcher Bill Schultz was an honorable mention. Ellington and outfielder Doug Williams made the all-district team as Roger Palmer, Jim Hourigan, Coble, Schultz and Mike Osborne received honorable mention.

Alumni Annual Fund Sets Record

Contributions to Elon College by alumni of the 84-year-old institution reached an all-time high during the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The giving records show that a total of 1,080 alumni, an increase of 26 percent over the previous year, contributed a total of $139,196.03 to the College for current operational expenses, capital expenditures and endowment. The total gifts amount to an increase over 1971-72 gifts of $75,336.60.

Contributing to the large increase in donors and contributions was a challenge issued earlier in the year by an anonymous donor to match new gifts and increased gifts by alumni to the College.

In commenting on the alumni results for the year, Mrs. Irene Hook Covington of Sanford, president of the Alumni Association, said that "the successful completion of this year's Alumni Annual Fund is proof that our former students are very much interested in the future of the College and are committed to its ongoing success. The College has meant a great deal to us and the Alumni Annual Fund is one way we can show our support of the College and its programs."

Alumni Relations Director Tyrone Rowell, in summing up the report, said that he was especially pleased with the increase in the number of alumni who are giving to the College. "This is the first year that we have ever had over 1,000 alumni donors in a single fiscal year, and although our percentage of participation is still lower than we would like it to be, it has shown a strong increase in each of the past few years."

Overall a total of $719,543.32 in gifts was received by the College during the 1972-73 fiscal year from 1,798 donors. Of this amount, $412,529.90 was for the current operations of the College, $171,690.60 for capital expenditures and $135,323.82 for increases in the endowment.

Former president, Dr. J. E. Danieleley, stated "This has been a very good year for the College and we deeply appreciate the significant support that we have received from alumni, parents, friends, trustees, churches, and from firms and foundations in North Carolina and across the country. This is a strong indication that Elon College is doing a good job in the field of higher education and that our friends want Elon's programs to continue to grow and develop."

The largest increases in giving were from Burlington area friends who increased their gifts to the College by 232 percent. Other publics showing marked increases were alumni, 157 percent; friends outside the Burlington area, 106 percent; firms and foundations, 92 percent; and trustees, 42 percent. Increased gifts were also received from parents, the North Carolina Foundation of Church-Related Colleges, bequests and government grants.

Dr. T. E. Powell III, chairman of the development committee of the College's Board of Trustees, said that the success of this year's fund-raising efforts is due in great part to the work of volunteer solicitors.

"We cannot adequately express our appreciation to the more than 225 volunteers—alumni, parents, friends and trustees—who have given so much of their time and talent in writing letters, making phone calls and making personal calls on prospective donors," said Powell. "And the need for their unselfish service will continue to grow in direct proportion to the increased needs of the College."

Dr. Fred Young Assumes Office As Elon's Seventh President

Dr. J. Fred Young took office as the seventh president of Elon College on August 1 succeeding Dr. J. E. Danieleley who returned to the classroom after serving the College as the chief administrator for 16 years.

Young, a native of Burnsville and a graduate of Wake Forest University, has been serving as deputy superintendent of public instruction in the Commonwealth of Virginia and as chairman of a Governor's Task Force that recently presented to Governor Linwood Holton a report that proposes revamping the formula for that state's financial aid to local school districts to meet quality education requirements of Virginia's 1971 constitution. The report has been received with much favorable response.

Young, who is 38 years old, has served in public education all his adult life including a number of years as superintendent of schools in Lynchburg, Va. and assistant superintendent in Burlington. He is not a stranger to private education, however, as he holds undergraduate degrees from Mars Hill College and Wake Forest.

"It is truly an honor to have been chosen to serve as president of Elon College," said Young as he began his duties. "I look forward to the challenge that private higher education offers."

"Dr. Danieleley has left office with the College in good shape financially and academically," he continued, "and I understand that we will have another full enrollment again this fall. All this can be attributed to his dedication."

"Higher education has faced some trying times during the past several years, but the future looks bright. I look forward to being a part of a new era into which private higher education is emerging," Young concluded.

Elon College Athletic Teams Compile Outstanding 1972-73 All-Sports Record

They don't award a Carmichael Cup in the Carolinas Conference to the member college which has the best overall year in intercollegiate athletics, but if they did, Elon College would surely be a top contender for the year just past.

During the 1972-73 academic year, Fighting Christian teams compiled an overall record of 112 wins, 44 losses and a single tie in ten of the eleven sports in which they participated on an intercollegiate level. A total of 26 student athletes were named to all-star teams, three head coaches reaped Coach of the Year honors, and three teams won championships.

The year got off to a good start with the football team taking a share of the Carolinas Conference championship on its way to a 7-3-1 record. Two players received honorable mention on the NAIA All-America team—senior Mike Lawton and sophomore Brent Sexton—while five made the All-District 26 team—Lawton, Sexton, quarterback Joe West, captain Nick Angelone and sophomore Steve Yuskevich.

All-State team members included Lawton, with honorable mention laurels going to West, Yuskevich and end Curtis Leary. Lawton was named the Most Valuable Back in the Carolinas Conference and was joined on the all-conference team by Sexton, West, Angelone, Yuskevich, Leary, and juniors Glenn Ellis and Scott Rush.

Coach
"Red"
Wilson

Coach S. S. "Red" Wilson was recognized for his outstanding leadership during the season as he received Coach of the Year honors in the Carolinas Conference, NAIA District 26 and College Division Area 3 of the American Football Coaches Association. The Denver Broncos also recognized the potential of senior end Ken Morgan and drafted him in the 17th round of the annual college draft.

Not to be outdone, the women's volleyball team compiled a 20-6 record in its first official season as an intercollegiate team. The team was coached by Miss Kay Yow.

Another first year team competing during the fall months was the soccer team. Coach Charles Harris formed the team in the early weeks of the school year and then arranged an abbreviated schedule after discovering a glimmer of talent and a blaze of enthusiasm. The team won its first match, but lost the last four.

Two members of the cross-country team—another first year entry in Elon's athletic history book—were named to the NAIA All-District 26 team as the team finished 11th in the state meet among the 17 teams entered. The Christians also ran in four other meets during the fall, bettering their times on each occasion. Coach Clayton Johnson was assisted in cross-country by Prof. Fred Watts.

Coach Bill Miller's cagers finished the regular season this winter in third place in a tough Carolinas Conference race after getting off to a rather shaky start. The Maroon and Gold finished the season with a 23-9 regular season slate after losing in the semi-finals of the conference tournament to the eventual NAIA national championship team—Guilford.

Center Larry Trautwein finished his four years in the Maroon and Gold uniform by being named to the all-conference and all-district teams. He was also an honorable mention for the NAIA All-America team—only the second Elon basketball player to be so named. Junior Diffy Ross was another all-conference choice from Elon.

Another basketball team—the women's edition—compiled a 13-3 record during its second season. Coach Yow's team went into the state tournament as a darkhorse contender, but had the misfortune of being paired in the same bracket with the eventual state championship team—East Carolina—and was eliminated in the second round.

Coach
"Mickey"
Brown

The highlight of the winter sports season came on the wrestling mat as the Elon grapplers compiled a regular season record of 7-1 and then went on to win the District 26 championship. Four of Coach Mickey Brown's wrestlers went on to compete in the NAIA National Finals after winning individual district championships in their weight classes. All-district wrestlers were Ricky Sims, Billy Starks, Joe Harrison and Buddy Thomas. Coach Brown was chosen Coach of the Year for wrestling in District 26.

Elon's track and field team, headed by Coach Clayton Johnson, had a good regular season on the cinders, but its main weakness—a lack of depth—showed up in the conference meet where the team finished fifth.

Coach Jerry Tolley's tennis team also had a good regular season—10-3 overall and 7-3 in conference action—but had first round pairings and a strong High Point team, which went on to the nationals, put them out of the running in the conference and district matches.

Bad weather and two poor rounds in the conference tournament melted the hopes this spring of one of Elon's best golf teams ever as Coach Bill Morningstar's linksters finished third in the conference tournament after finishing the regular season in first place with a conference record of 10-2 and an overall slate of 15-6. A bright star in the tournament was the play of comediast Bill Atkins, for which he was named an all-conference choice. Final exams prevented the team from competing in the district tournament.

Coach
Jerry
Drake

The third championship for Elon and the third Coach of the Year honor for a Fighting Christian coach came on the baseball diamond as the Elon nine took the NAIA District 26 championship from High Point after having lost the conference crown to the Panthers a week earlier. Coach Jerry Drake won the District 26 Coach of the Year honors for his outstanding leadership in a season in which his team won 24 of 35 games—the most wins ever for an Elon baseball team.

In the Area 7 playoffs—the preliminaries for the NAIA National Tournament—the Christians put up a valiant effort before losing in the fifth game to Pembroke to take runner-up honors.

All-star honors bestowed upon Elon baseballers included All-State honors to centerfielder Wayne Ellington and catcher Drew Coble. Pitcher Bill Schultz received honorable mention in the all-state balloting. Named to the all-district team were Ellington and rightfielder Doug Williams. Honorable mention on this team went to Coble, Schultz, third baseman Jim Hourigan, pitcher Mike Osborne and leftfielder Roger Palmer.

There were six Christians on the all-conference team—Coble, Ellington, Schultz, Osborne, Palmer and shortstop Bill "Scooter" Dunn.

It was a good year!

Basketball Team Selected For Experimental Game

Two Carolinas Conference basketball teams that have been hardwired opponents since 1912 will square off in a special experimental game in the Greensboro Coliseum in March between the semi-final and final games of the NCAA national championship tournament.

Elon College and Guilford College teams have been invited to participate in the National Association of Basketball Coaches' annual experimental game that will utilize an 11-foot basket and a 30-second clock. The invitations were issued by Jerry Krause of Eastern Washington State College, chairman of the NABC Research Committee.

The game will be played on Friday, March 22, at 7:30 p.m. in the coliseum. Many NABC coaches from throughout the nation will be attending the game as a part of their annual convention's program of events. The game will also be open to the general public, according to Krause.

The two NAIA teams were invited because of the differing styles of play—Elon plays a ball control game while Guilford is known as a running team—and because they are located near the site of the NABC convention and NCAA national tournament.

New Hall of Fame Inductees Named

Five outstanding Elon College athletes will be inducted into the Elon College Sports Hall of Fame during Homecoming festivities on the Elon campus Saturday morning, October 20.

The group of Elon stars, whose sports exploits have excited Fighting Christian fans in years gone by, include Hal Bradley, an outstanding football and basketball great; the late Gordon A. Kirkland, a fine football ace and a solid baseball player and later a great coach at Catawba College; Lynn Newcomb, one of Elon's all-time great centers and outstanding track stars; the late J. U. "Dummy" Newman, Jr., probably Elon's best basketball and baseball star during the early years of Elon athletic competition; and, Lou Roshelli, a triple-threat football star in the early fifties.

These five sports stars will be added to the list of Elon College sports figures and their names will be included on a permanent plaque in the Chester Huey Room in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium. Personal plaques and certificates will be awarded to each of the five new inductees.

Mrs. Christina Hardy Hunter was a recent visitor to the campus. She was a member of the faculty (1946-49) and dean of women (1947-49). She asked us to send greetings to her former students. Her address is 7446 Brookmill Road, Downey, Ca. 90241.

Alumni of Elon College and Atlantic Christian College pose under the palms of Hawaii during the recent Alumni Tour. The Hawaii trip was the third tour sponsored by the Alumni Association. Plans for the 1973-74 Alumni Tour will be announced in the October issue of Alumni News.

Faculty Changes

Four new people will join the Elon College faculty this fall while two current members announce plans for retirement.

Dr. C. Fletcher Moore, '34, who has served as dean of the College since 1961, and Dr. Howard R. Richardson, '27, professor of English and education, have announced their retirement from these positions.

Dean Moore will return to full-time teaching at Elon as professor of piano and organ and chairman of the fine arts department. Dr. Richardson concluded his teaching duties at the end of the spring semester.

Two of the four new faculty members are Elon alumni. G. Lynn Ryals, '66, a doctoral candidate in zoology at Clemson University, will become an assistant professor of biology. Ryals received his masters degree from Appalachian State University in Boone and taught at Lees-McRae College in Banner Elk and Southeastern Community College in Whiteville.

Stephen W. Caddell, '69, will be joining the faculty as the College's campus minister. He has recently completed requirements for the Master of Divinity degree at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va.

A new member of the music faculty is assistant professor Trelles C. Case. He was a member of the faculty at Chowan College in Murfreesboro for nine years and has completed course work for his doctorate at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. He received his masters from Florida State University in Tallahassee.

James H. Pace is a new member of the faculty in religion. He is completing his doctorate at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., with concentration in the Old Testament.

Elon College Represented

Mr. Robert I. Wright, 2908 Lavita Lane, Dallas, Tx., represented the College at the Centennial Convocation of Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, on January 25. Mr. Wright is a 1951 graduate of Elon College.

Mrs. Mary McCants Evans, Bernard E. Bee Street, Anderson, S. C., represented the College at the inauguration of J. Cordell Maddox as eighth president of Anderson College, Anderson, on April 17. Mrs. Evans is a 1945 Elon College graduate.

Mr. Jack B. Hanel, Sr., 8432 York Road, Bloomington, Mn., represented the College at the inauguration of Robert Sterling Swanson as the chancellor of the University of Wisconsin-Stout, Menomonie, Wi., on April 30. Mr. Hanel is a 1950 Elon College graduate.

Major Renovations Continue On Campus

Two buildings on the Elon College campus are undergoing extensive renovations during the summer months and five tennis courts are being built to add to the physical education and recreational facilities of the College.

West Dormitory, the oldest building on the 84-year-old campus, has taken on a new interior look with wood-grain paneling covering all walls in the rooms and hallways. This, in addition to a new coat of paint on the ceilings, has given the building's interior a completely new look.

West Dorm, a three-story brick structure built in 1906, provides rooms for 68 women students on the top two floors as well as a large reception hall, guest rooms, parlors and living quarters for dormitory hostesses on the first floor.

The Carlton Building, which provides office space for 24 faculty members, two classrooms, a photography studio, a recital hall for the music department, two seminar rooms and studios for the art department, has been completely renovated with new electrical wiring and lights, lowered ceilings and an interior coat of paint. It is the last of the five academic buildings to be renovated with funds from the $3 million E4 capital funds campaign that was completed last summer. The renovation of this building, which once housed the College library, will not be completed until later in the year.

The five tennis courts, located west of the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium, are being built to replace three old courts that have been removed. The courts will feature a two-tone green all-weather surface. The five courts will provide for more instructional time in physical education classes, more recreational time for tennis-playing students and improved facilities for the College's tennis team.

Larry B. McCauley, Director of Physical Plant, supervises campus renovation.

Publication Receives National Award

The 66-page football magazine produced last fall for Elon College's six home football games has been awarded All-America recognition by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for the second straight year.

The magazine, produced by News Bureau Director Melvin Shreves and Student Sports Information Director Mark Smith, received the highest rating in the competition for its first place finish in Division I. Elon's magazine finished eighth in the nation last year.

One of the distinctive features of Elon's magazine was the individual covers produced for each of the six games. Each cover carried an original cartoon by Burlington resident Mack Ray which showed the "Fighting Christian" doing battle with an opponent.

Another North Carolina member of the NAIA was also awarded All-America recognition for its football program. North Carolina A&T University finished sixth in the Division I competition after a second place finish last year.

Homecoming Plans Include Golf Tourney

The 1973 Elon College Homecoming date has been set for October 20, 1973, when the Christians will take on the Indians of Catawba College at Burlington's Memorial Stadium.

Some of the weekend's highlights will include the third installation ceremony for new members of the Sports Hall of Fame inductees and an alumni golf tournament to be held at the Shamrock Park Golf Course.

Reservations are required for those alumni who would like to attend the Saturday picnic luncheon under the oaks, the alumni buffet or those wishing to participate in the golf tournament.

Other Homecoming activities will feature a morning reception and registration in Long Student Center and a special opportunity for alumni to "meet President and Mrs. Young" at an open house in Harper Center following the Homecoming football game. Dr. Young became Elon's seventh President on August 1, 1973.

Alumni are urged to make their reservations early.

Dr. Young Installed As Seventh President Of Elon

Dr. James Fred Young was officially installed as the seventh president of Elon College in a quiet and simple ceremony on the afternoon of October 17 as the Secretary of State of North Carolina, Thad Eure, charged him with the responsibilities of the presidency and swore him into office.

Dr. Young, who has been carrying out the duties of his new office since August 1, repeated a brief 11-word pledge to "uphold the honor, integrity, Christian ideals and character" of the 84-year-old institution and then gave a brief response to the more than 250 board members, faculty and staff members and student leaders that filled McEwen Dining Hall for the occasion.

"I challenge each of you," he said to all Elon friends as well as those assembled at the conclusion of his talk. "To join me in the dedication of our fullest individual and collective efforts to the preservation and extension of the ideals and concepts that are the foundations of Elon College. We must be worthy of our noble heritage and our great responsibility."

The ceremony followed an annual trustee-faculty luncheon and was presided over by the chairman of the Presidential Selection Committee, Royall H. Spence, Jr. of Greensboro.

Fall Enrollment Tops 2,000

Enrollment at Elon College has reached an all-time high this year and figures for the fall semester revealed that over 2,000 students are attending classes at the College. This marks the third straight year—in a time when the national trend is in the opposite direction—that the fall enrollment has shown an increase over the previous year at Elon.

"This is very good news for the College and for the community of which it is a part," said Dr. Fred Young, president of the College. "To the College, it is a reaffirmation, on the part of the students and their parents, of faith in Elon and the programs of study that have been established here."

"To the community, it means that their college is stronger than ever and that its economic and cultural impact on the community will be even greater," he stressed.

A report from the College's Registrar, Kenneth L. Harper, showed that a larger number of students are from North Carolina this fall—a total of 1,220 or 61.1 percent as compared with 1,116 (60.0 percent) in 1972.

While the majority of Elon's students are coming from a more compact area, the base of student enrollment is becoming wider. This year students are enrolled from 28 states, the District of Columbia and five foreign countries. Last year, only 22 states other than North Carolina were represented on the Elon campus.

Virginia has the second largest contingent of students with a total of 478, or 23.9 percent of the total enrollment, 29 more than were registered last fall. New Jersey and Maryland have 65 and 64 students respectively while the Keystone state of Pennsylvania is represented by 29 students and New York has 27.

There are four students enrolled this year from Thailand and two from Sierra Leone. Other foreign students are enrolled from: Chili, Hong Kong and Peru.

In North Carolina, Alamance is the county claiming the largest student representation. The two counties tied for the second largest group of students are Forsyth and neighboring Guilford County, each having 109 students at the College.

North Carolina students are enrolled from 70 of North Carolina's 100 counties from Haywood in the west to Washington in the east.

While Elon is affiliated with the United Church of Christ, the largest number of students indicate affiliation with Baptist churches. The 509 Baptists are followed by 444 Methodists, 257 Presbyterians and 170 UCC members. Catholics number 142 and Episcopalians 118.

The greatest number of those enrolled this fall, mostly freshmen, are undecided about their major field of study, but 295 students are listed as business administration majors, 222 as physical education majors and 206 as elementary education majors. Other business majors include 85 in accounting, 38 in business education, 16 in one-year secretarial science and 41 in two-year secretarial science courses of study. Other students are enrolled in the other 19 major courses of study offered by the College.

The Registrar's report showed that 565 students are enrolled in college for the first time and 131 others are also classified as freshmen. Sophomores number 450 while there are 388 juniors, 306 seniors and 100 special students.

A further breakdown in the enrollment figures shows that 1,155 students are living in the College's dormitories while 795 are commuting to their classes from home or other off-campus quarters.

Male students outnumber their female counterparts 1,200 to 750. Males living on campus number 657 while 498 women students are housed on campus.

Football Team Gains National Recognition

by Melvin L. Shreve, '66

The highlight of Elon College's fantastic football season has to have been the 35-24 victory that the Fighting Christians posted over the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse in the NAIA Champions Bowl Playoff Game that was staged in Burlington Memorial Stadium on December 1.

The setting was perfect. The Christians had posted an 11-0 regular season record and were rated as the number one team in the NAIA. Four players had been named All-Americans and a number of others were All-State, All-Conference and All-District choices.

The Burlington-Alamance County Chamber of Commerce joined with the College to host the game and had taken on the responsibility of promoting the game and selling tickets. The stands of the stadium were full for the first time in history—a real tribute to the hard work of the Chamber. For the thirteenth straight week, the weather was beautiful—almost as beautiful as the gridiron itself which had been dyed green from goal line to goal line with the endzones painted maroon and "ELON" spelled out in gold at each end and "UWL" in gray at the other.

Prior to the game and during the halftime, music filled the air as the La Crosse jazz ensemble and the Elon College Marching Band—the show-band of the Carolinas—entertained the fans. Majorettes and cheerleaders from both institutions added to the beauty and excitement of the day.

During the game, both the offense and the defense shined for Elon. The defense came up with great tackles and interceptions while the offense brought the crowd to its feet with outstanding run-backs, beautiful pass plays and a rambling running game.

To list the heroes of the game would be to list the entire roster of the 36 players that were allowed to dress out as well as the other 30 or so players who stuck out the regular season, some seeing only limited action. But some have to be mentioned.

Senior flanker Curtis Leary caught four touchdown passes from quarterback Joe West and was named the outstanding offensive player of the game. He was also named by the Greensboro Daily News as the Athlete of the Week in North Carolina for his performance.

Freshman sensation Alex McMillan carried the ball 27 times for a total of 135 yards that included a 55-yard touchdown run. Defensive back Don McLaughlin brought the crowd to its feet with an 86-yard kickoff return that he almost broke for a score.

Dwight Shoe led the defensive backs in a superb effort as they intercepted five La Crosse passes, three of them by Shoe. The visitors threw the ball a total of 46 times, but the defense allowed only 21 completions.

In the trenches, the offensive line opened up the holes for the running backs and held off La Crosse defensive linemen in passing situations. The Maroon and Gold defensive line slowed down the visitors' running game and didn't allow a score on the ground.

On the following week, the Christians traveled to Shreveport, La. to meet Abilene Christian in the Champions Bowl. The loss there was disappointing, but it did not erase the memories of the greatest season in the history of Elon College football nor did it tarnish the brilliance of the players who made up the team that posted the first 11-0 regular season collegiate record in history by a North Carolina team.

Never before in the history of Elon College has more than one player been named to an All-

America team—in 1973 there were four: defensive tackle Glenn Ellis (AP, NAIA, Kodak), defensive back John Muir (AP), punter Fred Long and defensive tackle Nick Angeline (Universal Sports).

All-district choices included Mark Ellis, Steve Yuskevich, Gary Darnell and Brent Sexton in addition to Glenn Ellis while All-State honors went to Yuskevich, Glenn Ellis and Sexton. Darnell, Mark Ellis, McMillan, Scott Rush and Muir were honorable mentions for the All-State team.

Named to the All-Conference teams were Mark and Glenn Ellis, Yuskevich, Darnell, Leary, Buddy Thomas, Rush, Muir, Sexton, McMillan, Dave Davis, Angeline and John Peter Rascoe. Darnell was named Back of the Year in the conference while Glenn Ellis was the league's lineman of the year and defensive captain of the All-State team. Yuskevich and Sexton were honorable mentions to the NAIA All-America team.

As this article goes to press, another player is being considered for the Academic All-America team as chosen by the College Sports Information Directors Association. Defensive and John Peter Rascoe compiled a 3.55 grade point average as a business administration major in his first three years and was an outstanding player.

Elon's top player this year has to be defensive tackle Glenn Ellis. Glenn was named to three All-America teams and was also picked to play in the North-South All-Star game in Miami on Christmas Day where he distinguished himself. He is also expected to be drafted by the pros later in January.

All of the honors didn't go to the players, however. Coach Red Wilson became the winningest coach in the history of the College as he posted his 46th win at the helm of the Fighting Christian team to surpass the 45 victories posted by the great Peshead Walker. He was also named Coach of the Year in the Carolinas Conference, in District 26 of the NAIA and in Area Three of the American Football Coaches Association.

But '73 is now history. What about the future? Coach Wilson has announced that he will remain at Elon. The nucleus of the great '73 team will be back, though quarterback Joe West, the most accurate passer in the history of Elon football, and the entire defensive line from end to end will be lost to graduation. But the future looks bright and Elon will be back strong in '74. So get those ticket orders in now.

Isley Named to College Position

S. Carlisle Isley, former mayor of Burlington and former vice president in charge of public and industrial relations with Kayser-Roth Hosiery Company, has been named director of institutional relations at Elon College, a post he assumed on November 26, 1973.

In this position, Isley is directly responsible for all external affairs of the College to include development, alumni and parent relations, community services, publications, and information services.

"We are delighted to have Carlisle Isley as a member of the staff at Elon," said Dr. Fred Young, president of the College, in making the announcement. "He is a well-known member of the community, having served in many capacities in civic and governmental affairs, and has a great deal of experience in management and public relations. He is a person who possesses the background and skills that can greatly benefit Elon College."

Elon's new institutional relations director is married to the former Margaret Plonk of Kings Mountain. The Isleys have three children, Mrs. John B. Lewis, Jr. of Farmville, Scott Isley with NCNB in Kinston and Joseph Plonk, a senior at UNC who will enter medical school next fall.

Winter Term 1974: Home And Abroad

Winter Term at Elon College offered 1474 students more diversity in course selection than ever before. Students had a choice between several courses being offered for the first time during the January mini-term and other travel and study opportunities or music tours.

A typical classroom on the Elon campus found students exploring Art, Chemistry, North Carolina History, or Classical Mythology. Education 271 sent ten persons out into the public schools of Alamance County to serve as teachers aides. Moving westerly from Elon College, another 32 Winter Termers learned to master the ski slopes of the North Carolina mountains under the supervision of Professor Don Kally. The Emanons Jazz and Rock Band, under the direction of Professor Jack White, took the North-South route as they performed in concert for high schools in Virginia and South Carolina as well as in Alamance County.

Crossing the ocean for travel and study abroad was in store for approximately 75 Elon students. Separate tours to Britain were offered in three fields of study: Music led by Dr. Fletcher Moore. History led by Professor Dennis Breskow, and English led by Dr. Robert Blake. Still another group of students were guided by Professor Suzanne Hooper through Paris on a French Studies tour.

At home or abroad, Winter Term at Elon College was an interesting and exciting time for many students!

Kirkpatrick's Establish Scholarship

An unrestricted gift of $10,000 to Elon College has been placed in endowment to provide for an annual academic scholarship that will be awarded to outstanding Alamance County scholars in honor of the donors of the gift.

The gift was presented to Dr. Fred Young, president of the College, by Ralph F. Kirkpatrick, Jr. and his wife, Florence Walker Kirkpatrick, who is a former Elon College student. Dr. Young has indicated that the scholarship will be named in their honor.

"Elon College is very grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick for their generous contribution and for the opportunity it gives us to offer an annual $500 scholarship to an Alamance County student who has achieved in academic work on the high school level," said the Elon president in announcing the gift.

The establishment of this new fund marks the emphasis that the College has placed on obtaining additional gifts for an increased number of endowed academic awards. "Scholarships of this nature are very necessary for the scholarly growth of the College," added Dr. Young, "and provide incentive for prospective Elon students who have achieved academically."

Alumni Day Plans Announced Gordon To Be Honored As Outstanding Alumnus

Clyde W. Gordon, Sr., for many years a prominent Burlington businessman and a member of Elon's class of 1926, will be honored by the Elon College Alumni Association on Saturday evening, May 18, when he is presented the 1974 Outstanding Alumnus of the Year award.

Announcement of the award was made recently by Thomas L. Bass, Jr., director of alumni and parent relations for Elon. The award will be presented at the Alumni Banquet in McEwen Dining Hall as the highlight of Alumni Weekend.

Upon graduation from Elon with a special business and A.B. degree, Gordon began the first of several separate careers in the textile manufacturing business with Standard Hosiery Mills in the village of Alamance. He swept the office, made out the payroll, typed contracts and other official papers. Three years later he was secretary of the expanding business.

Another textile career began for Clyde Gordon in 1938 when he associated himself with the Century Hosiery Corporation of Burlington. A few years later Century and Standard were acquired by Chester H. Roth of New York City as the first elements in Roth's chain of textile facilities. It was later to become Kayser-Roth Hosiery Company, one of the giants of the textile industry. Gordon returned to Roth-owned Standard Hosiery as executive vice president and became an officer and director of the parent company and its various affiliates and subsidiaries. When the Chester H. Roth Company was formed Gordon became its executive vice president in charge of southern operations.

Still another career commenced in 1954 when Gordon and W. C. Mull formed the Monarch Processing Company at Graham. They built and expanded the business through the ensuing 15 years until it became a part of Collins and Aikman.

He has served as a director and trustee on various boards and associations and was one of the founders of the John Motley Morehead Foundation. He is a former member and secretary of the Elon College Board of Trustees and now holds an honorary life membership. He was named Citizen of the Year for 1951 by the Burlington Kiwanis Club. In 1970 he was named Alamance County's Industrial Citizen of the Year.

Gordon is a member of the First Christian Church in Burlington. He is married to the former Nell Orr, class of 1927, and they have two children Patricia Orr Gordon, now Mrs. Maurice N. Jennings, and Clyde W. Gordon, Jr.

Moncure Assumes College Post

Dr. James A. Moncure, dean of University College of the University of Richmond, has been named to fill the post of vice president for academic and student affairs at Elon College.

Announcement of Dr. Moncure's appointment came from Dr. Fred Young, president of Elon College. The new vice president assumed his duties at the college on March 1.

"We feel very fortunate that we have been able to secure a person for this very responsible role who has the academic teaching background, the liberal arts college background, and the administrative experience that Dr. Moncure has," said Dr. Young in making this announcement. "He has also had the major responsibility for the development of community and business oriented services at University College that Elon College very much wants to provide for our community and its business."

Dr. Moncure is a graduate of the University of Richmond and of Columbia University, where he was awarded his masters and doctoral degrees in English history. He began his teaching career at Richmond in 1954 and has been professor of history since 1967.

In 1963 he was named associate dean of University College, Richmond's urban-oriented college located in downtown Richmond. In this position he established a junior college division for over 400 students and evening programs leading to the Master of Humanities degree, Bachelor of Arts degrees, and Associate in Arts award.

He also founded and directed the University of Richmond Summer School Study Abroad Program. This was the first such program offered by a college or university in Virginia. Between 1963 and 1970 he personally conducted seven programs to Europe.

As dean of University College, Dr. Moncure has been responsible for all three of its major divisions including the Day Division for over 400 students, the Evening Division for over 2,000 students, and the Institute for Business and Community Development. The institute consists of management, urban and research centers which give programs to over 4,000 individuals annually.

Dr. Moncure is a member of the American Historical Association, the Archaeological Institute of America, the Conference on British Studies, and the Virginia Social Science Association. He was selected Richmond's Community Ambassador to England in 1954. He is also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa (leadership fraternity), Phi Alpha Theta (history), and Pi Sigma Alpha (Political Science). He is on the Board of Directors of many civic groups and has served as chairman of the Board of Deacons of the River Road Baptist Church. He is listed in Who's Who in America.

A veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict in the U. S. Army, Dr. Moncure has traveled extensively in Greece, Italy, Spain, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands, the United Kingdom, France, Puerto Rico, Mexico, and Canada.

"Dr. Moncure will have the responsibility for all internal affairs of the College as they relate to student personnel and instruction," Dr. Young said in explaining the duties of the new vice president. "He will be expected to provide leadership in program and staff development."

Dr. Moncure is married to the former Jan Bruce Belk, whose family is from North Carolina and who teaches early childhood education in West-hampton College of the University of Richmond. She has had ten children's literature books published and expects to have four more in print this year. The Moncures have one son, James II.

Burlington Industries Foundation Establishes Scholars Program

A Burlington Industries Scholars Program that will provide a total of 20 four-year scholarships for academically talented Burlington and Alamance County high school graduates has been established at Elon College by the Burlington Industries Foundation.

Announcement of the new Scholars Program was made jointly by Charles A. McLendon, executive director of the Burlington Industries Foundation, and Dr. Fred Young, president of Elon College.

Under this program, the Burlington Industries Foundation will make available five $500 scholarships for the 1974-75 academic year, increasing the number to 10 in 1975-76, 15 in 1976-77 and a total of 20 in 1977-78. The 20 scholarships, valued at $2,000 each, would be awarded on a basis of scholastic achievement and leadership to Alamance County young people for four years. An Elon College awards committee will choose from those students nominated by local high school officials.

"This Scholars Program underlines the faith and confidence that the Burlington Industries Foundation has in the young people and the institutions of Alamance County," said Dr. Young in acknowledging the new educational grant. "Scholarships of this nature are appropriate rewards for those students who have worked hard during their high school years and who have achieved academic excellence and leadership. It is fitting that this program has been set up in Alamance County where Burlington Industries was founded 50 years ago."

"It is the hope of the Burlington Industries Foundation," said McLendon, "that Elon College will attract more of Alamance County's top-flight students. The College has traditionally served Alamance County students with an exceptionally fine educational program and it is our objective with this program to help see that this trend continues."

New Gym Named For Former Senator

Sen. B. Everett Jordan

Former United States Sen. B. Everett Jordan was honored at Elon College when the name of the Saxapahaw native was bestowed upon one of the newest facilities on the Elon campus.

Thad Eure, chairman of the board of the college, announced at a board of trustees luncheon that the new gymnasium in the physical education building, completed in 1970, will become known as the B. Everett Jordan Gymnasium. The board took official action on naming the facility at an earlier meeting.

Sen. Jordan has been an active member of the board of trustees of Elon College since 1946 and has rendered numerous services to the college during that period. In 1960, he was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree at a convocation on the Elon campus.

"The unselfish dedication to Elon College by Sen. Jordan as a trustee, as a member of the United States Senate, and as an individual shall be cherished by us," said Eure in making the announcement. "He has given of himself personally and materially, and his recent generous contribution to the College has enabled us to eliminate the remaining indebtedness on this facility."

The gymnasium, which is used primarily for educational and recreational activities by over 800 students per day, is also used for a number of public functions by outside agencies and for intercollegiate athletic competition. The Burlington-Alamance County Chamber of Commerce has used it for the past several years for its annual banquet.

Senator Jordan passed away March 15, ten days after the building was named for him.

Ward Provides Scholarship Fund

C. Max Ward

A $10,000 gift by an Alamance County businessman has made possible the establishment of a new scholarship fund at Elon College for outstanding scholars.

The C. Max Ward Scholarship Fund will provide an annual $500 scholarship for a student attending Elon College who has excelled in academic endeavors, has need for funds to attend college and who has an interest in athletics. The first of these awards will be made for the 1974-75 academic year.

In announcing the new scholarship, Dr. Fred Young, president of the college, expressed his appreciation to Ward by saying that the scholarship would be very useful to the college in attracting an outstanding high school student who might not otherwise be able to attend college.

Ward, president and owner of Max Ward-Delmar Studios, Inc. in Burlington, said that in establishing the scholarship he hoped that more students would be able to avail themselves of the opportunities that Elon College had to offer. An alumnus of Elon College in the Class of 1949 and an ardent supporter of Elon's athletic teams, Ward said he felt that the alumni should help their college and prospective students in whatever way possible.

The recipient of the 1974-75 scholarship will be announced in the spring or summer months.
